Mass Transit No Panacea

Transit Stations to Stimulate Growth

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Experts agree that mass transit is not a panacea for automobile congestion on the state's highways.

And it alone will have no lasting effect on eliminating pollution caused by vehicles.

Larry Dahms, assistant general manager of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District (BART), says the best argument for transit is that development of a community can be controlled by location of rapid transit stations.

Second of a Series

The transit official contends that location of a rapid transit station stimulates growth in its immediate area. He cited Toronto and Cleveland as examples of this "controlled development."

In both cities apartments, shopping centers and shopping malls have sprung up around transit stations.

Dahms acknowledges that some measure of relief from air and traffic pollution will result when transit begins operations. However, the congestion and pollution will return in time.

Recent estimates indicate some 20 per cent of the state's population is immobile because they cannot afford a second car and transportation is not readily available.

Those hardest hit are senior citizens, housewives, and the poor.

"It seems we have put all our eggs into one basket and everyone can't get into that basket," Dahms said.

He was talking of the extensive state highway network.

"We are now building a transit system that will hopefully serve communities for 50 years and not for five or ten years," he explained.

Communities also must plan for this long-term development, Dahms said.

Transit experts point up the fact that there are alternatives to building a Peninsula mass transit system.

Among the alternatives are double-decking of the Bayshore Freeway and construction of the Bayfront Freeway.

Both have been bitterly attacked by conservation groups.

San Mateo County Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald, instrumental in getting the present joint venture talks on a transit link o San Francisco International Airport under way, gives the Peninsula highway network "not more than ten years of life."

Before 1980 every highway in the county will be choked with traffic, Fitzgerald predicts.

"Our freeways will never be as good as they are right now," he offers.

Aside from such highways as L-380 (east-west) there is not enough suitable land available to construct new freeways on the Peninsula.

The best that engineers can do is upgrade existing highways such as Highway 1 down the Pacific Ocean coast or build the controversial Bayfront Freeway.

Back in 1913 the San Mateo County Development Association was worried about getting people into San Mateo County to sell them homes.

A half-century later transportation on the Peninsula is still a major concern.

"The most confounding problem that we have in our county today is how are we going to supply necessary transportation to keep up with our economic growth," Henry Bostwick, Executive Director of the San Mateo County Development Association said.

A recent survey centering on traffic flow on the Bayshore Freeway — one of two corridors serving Peninsula motorists — shows that traffic flow is generated at both ends of the county

Dress Code Ires Police

No Uniforms or Weapons at CSM

Police officers attending classes at the College of San Mateo are unhappy over a new dress code being enforced today.

They cannot carry their weapons on campus under a recent ruling.

During the fall semester the 38 policemen attending Police Officers' Standards and Training (POST) classes were told not to wear their uniforms.

Now school authorities, apparently under pressure from student groups, have issued the order not to carry guns on campus.

Every officer in the county must attend the classes at CSM for 360 hours.

The instruction ranges over a wide area of police tactics, including handling of demonstrating students.

Many officers are bitter over the recent ruling.

One Peninsula policeman said, "We're the only students on campus that have to adhere to a rigid dress code. All around us other students are walking around barefoot and in rags."

Daly City police captain David Hansen, an instructor at CSM, commented: "They (CSM officials) are taking away a policeman's work clothes—his uniform and his weapon."

Most police expressed dislike for having to give up their uniforms, "someting we are proud of."

Funds for the POST course comes from the state.

They are monies realized from uncommitted traffic fines collected in various police jurisdictions.

Minister Leads Protest in D.C. Against Yoga Lecture in School

By WILL THOMAS

A Daly City minister has objected to presentation of a lecture, "Yoga for Exercise," to Garden Village School fifth and sixth graders.

The Rev. Donald B. Sheley of the Calvary Cross Church on San Fernando Way, told trustees of the Jefferson Elementary School District that Yoga is "always associated with religious exercise."

He said that some families in his congregation objected to the inclusion of Yoga on religious grounds.

The lecture was to have been given at 1:30 p.m. today by Mrs. Magnana Baptiste in the Garden Village School's library.

But trustees directed the session be postponed until completion of an investigation by the JESD board.

Parents had been invited to the lecture by three fifth and sixth grade teachers in a letter which also included a permission form.

Garden Village Principal Glenn Forcum said one of the fifth grade teachers originally had scheduled the guest speaker as part of a series to also include separate baseball and football topics.

Forcum said he had seen no harm in the presentation.

However, after he began receiving phone calls, he referred the matter to Supt. Frank Greenwood's office.

Greenwood said that based on information he had supplied, the district attorney's office indicated there appeared to be no attempt to indoctrinate a religious belief.

The state codes do not prohibit the teaching of comparative religions, Greenwood added.

"I don't know if we have the right to exclude this," Greenwood said. Parents had been informed, he explained, and other arrangements had been made for students whose parents objected to their attendance.

Reverend Sheley said religious exercise should not be included in the school's curriculum. If the trustees were to allow the Yoga aspect of Hinduism, it should permit "every religion under the sun to present one aspect of their religion."

Chairman Ed Tomasello attempted to insert a parallel — that the school's libraries have great works of arts which have a religious connotation.

Tomasello, Daly City's recreation superintendent, said he did not believe the Yoga to be other than muscular exercise, in this instance. He pointed out that recreation departments and YW-YMCA's teach Yoga.

"But our children are forced to go to school," Pastor Sheley replied, noting the YW-YMCA participation to be voluntary.

Trustee Dorothy Adams commented that she did not believe that Yoga could be done "without practicing religion."

A teacher, it was charged, began selling illustrated papers on Yoga, but when challenged, refunded the money to students.

"It was innocent in nature," Principal Forcum said.

There was an "intent" to indoctrinate, Trustee Joseph Lewkowitz declared.

The teacher was cooperative, Principal Forcum said.

"It was an oversight on her part," he said.

Mrs. Adams said she wanted to know exactly what exercises were to be included in the program.

At Trustee Bill Schumacher's insistence, the trustees ordered the program delayed.

Chairman Tomasello and Pastor Sheley agreed to meet and study the subject.

Attorney Selected for Hearing

By BOB PETERSON

Attorney Paul Hupf has been selected by San Bruno councilmen to represent City Clerk Carl Hultberg at the February 9 "show cause" hearing set by Judge Mel Cohn.

The hearing is in response to a request for a preliminary injunction to halt the scheduled March 2 recall election.

In the injunction, filed by Attorney Rodney Robertson on behalf of the three councilmen facing recall, Hultberg is cited as improperly verifying petition signatures.

According to City Manager Christopher Menkin it was revealed last night that City Attorney Joseph Galligan hired the firm of Ropers and Majeski to represent Hultberg.

Councilman Ted Long said he objected to that hiring because of a conflict of interest. He pointed out that the firm is the same one that represented the three councilmen facing recall in the writ of mandate filed by Planning Commissioner Victor Ogrey.

Menkin said he would not sign any vouchers until the council had officially voted to approve the hiring.

Hupf was the compromise choice on a 3-1 vote, according to Menkin. Councilman Long agreed, Councilman Dick Griffith voted negative. Mayor Neil Christal did not vote after Councilmen Maurice Hamilton and George Corey's ayes passed the motion.

In other business, the councilmen passed the resolution adopting election workers and precinct locations. It was the identical resolution held up from the council meeting a week ago. Griffith again voted against it.

Chicano-Led Prayer Vigil Sunday at Mary's Help

The Hermanos Latinos organization of Daly City, pressing for a free neighborhood health center to serve the east Daly City Mission Street area, will sponsor a "pray-in" at Mary's Help Hospital at 2 p.m. Sunday.

The Chicano organization charged that the hospital "has not complied with its contract with the federal government to provide a reasonable volume of free care for the poor of the community."

The group referred to provisions surrounding the receipt of federal funds in 1966 and 1968.

A news release issued by Mrs. Andrew Ynostroza Jr., of Community Inter-Act on Thru You organization, explained:

"The purpose is to pray that the hospital will recognize its religious and legal obligation and make a commitment to serve the poor by establishing a neighborhood clinic and by providing free and reduced rate hospital services to persons in need."

Hermanos Latinos has asked for a March 1 decision.

"If a refusal is evident, the group will consider appropriate legal alternatives," according to Shelley Fernandez of the organization's steering committee.

Rex Chase, the hospital's administrator, said the Hermanos Latinos organization has asked the hospital to commit itself to financing and continued operation of a clinic.

"The hangup," he said, "is what is reasonable, and what is free care and what is a reasonable volume of free care?"

The hospital is evaluating the request, Chase added, and attempting to determine the demonstrated need for a Mission Street clinic.

He pointed out that the hospital in December launched development of a master plan that would not limit the Mary's Help facilities and services to the existing hilltop site.

The Hermanos Latinos' effort is being supported by the NAACP, Welfare Rights Organization, CITY, Blacks and Browns Organized to Meet the Necessary Demands.

Mother of Five Faces Eviction

A Daly City widow, mother of five children, may soon have the walls of her modest rented home tumbling down around her.

The house at 198 Los Olivos has been declared in violation of governmental codes by the city's engineering and fire departments, and the San Mateo County Department of Health and Welfare.

Mrs. Lillian L. Malucelli, owner of the property, responded to a city demand that the house be brought up to standards by informing the city council she would like to demolish the structure.

But one thing prevented her from carrying out this action: The widowed mother of five small children who now lives on a pension of some $450 per month.

Attempts to find the family suitable housing — something they can afford — have failed, Mrs. Malucelli said.

At one council meeting where the matter was discussed, Mrs. Malucelli explained that she rents the home for $125 per month. Her mortgage and taxes far exceed this figure.

So Mrs. Malucelli would like to tear the house down and build a new one.

Each time social workers send the widowed woman out to investigate a house for rent, the price is either too much or the owner refuses to rent to a family with five children.

Meanwhile, some members of the city council and staff have undertaken the seemingly impossible task of finding the family a home in the city on their own time.

The question remains: How long will the county wait before forcing the family's eviction?

Homeowners Being Told of Acquisitions

Letters have started going out to homeowners in the Knowles-Los Banos Avenue section of Daly City.

City manager David R. Rowe explained the city will begin appraising property in the area for eventual acquisition.

The five block long corridor between Mission Street and the new Bay Area Rapid Transit station is being redeveloped into a tree lined multi-laned parkway to handle anticipated traffic generated by the transit facility.

Some 55 homes will be removed to make way for the improvements, which include undergrounding of all public utilities.

Daniel L. Yee, an independent real estate appraiser, has been engaged by Daly City to carry out the appraisals, Rowe said.

Shortly after completion of the appraisals Donald C. Gardner and William H. Piercy will contact homeowners concerning actual purchasing of the property.

Daly City is the first city in the state to use gas tax funds to assist in relocation of both homeowner-occupants and renters.

A citizens committee comprising between five-seven persons is expected to be named by the council next Monday. This committee will be charged with aiding in relocating those persons affected by the project.

Flood Insurance for Millbrae

Millbrae residents are able today to apply for federally-backed "flood and mud-slide insurance" because their city council officially recognized the existing danger.

Even homeowners whose houses have slipped, and are slipping, in the "Valencia slide" area, may apply for the insurance.

State aide Don Warnshuis explained that it may take four to six weeks before the homes are actually covered, but said applications could begin immediately.

Warnshuis described the disaster aid on request of Mayor William Glang, who has been seeking for some action the city might take to help the citizens whose homes are threatened, or already damaged, by mudslides.

He said the insurance is federally subsidized, costs the homeowner 40 cents per $100 per year, and can only be had in amounts up to $17,500.

Beyond that figure, he said, insurance could be obtained from a private firm, at whatever rate established by the company's experts.

Mayor Glang, himself an insurance man, pointed out that the additional "insurance" coverage could cost as much as the house itself.

The council agreed on a resolution by which the city officially recognizes the mud-slide damage, and asks to participate in the insurance program.

From that point on, said Warnshuis, it is up to the individual citizen, to decide whether he wants the protection, or not.

In an executive session, the Council agreed to appoint Joseph Gillio as Millbrae's new city attorney.

Gillio, 48, is a member of the Menlo Park law firm of Jorgenson, Cosgrove, Andrews, Elliott and Gillio. He lives in Sunnyvale.

After a long public hearing, councilmen agreed to adopt the 1968 Building Code as adopted by San Mateo County, despite objections of electrical contractors.

The contractors' representatives complained that the new code would permit Romex electrical cable, such as has been used in San Mateo for years.

They said the flexible cable is unsafe, would result in no savings to home buyers, and would create problems for the city.

5 Boundaries Are Changed

The Board of Supervisors recently adopted an ordinance changing boundaries of the county's five supervisorial districts. It is effective May 1.

County Manager M. D. Tarshes, said the changes will tend to equalize the number of citizens in each district.

The difference in population between districts is now as great as 34,300. The new difference will be no greater than 15,000.

The smallest district will have 18 per cent of the people living in the county, while the largest will contain 21.2 per cent of the county's population. Previously, the smallest district had 16.2 per cent, while the largest district had 22.4 per cent of the people.

Some of the changes are as follows:

Morale Is Low at JC Campuses in the County

By JOHN HORGAN

The faculties at the three campuses of the San Mateo Junior College District are in a state of limbo.

Morale is at an all-time low. Professors are seeking ways to leave the community colleges at the earliest possible date. Recruitment of new faculty is virtually impossible. New programs can't even be contemplated.

All this is caused by the threat of defeat of a March 2 tax override which, if it fails, will cause drastic cutbacks at the colleges.

Dr. Frank C. Pearce

The one man on the administration staff of College of San Mateo who may feel the effects of that threat more than anyone else is Dr. Frank Pearce, CSM's Vice President and the school's Dean of Instruction.

First of a Series

He is the man who daily deals with faculty members. He hears their fears, their complaints and their ideas for the future.

And the future, Pearce said, is a dim one even if the override (an 11-cent boost) passes in March.

"It will take us a year or two to recover from this year even if the measure makes it," Dr. Pearce said.

"This has been a traumatic experience for the faculty. Morale is very bad. We have been placed in a kind of limbo. It is a day to day situation of not knowing what to expect or what to plan for. The morale is so bad I'm convinced it's being transferred down to the students. They can feel it. You talk about apathy. We have it."

"I don't know what to make of it. It may not be true in all cases, but, from what I've seen, there isn't that much enthusiasm among the faculty to push this thing (the override) over in March. They have all been stunned. It's hit them very hard."

Dr. Pearce said there is a particular problem of preparing for cuts that might not even be necessary. Some teachers, those without much tenure, know they will probably be on the list of expendables — but they can't be sure. So. Dr. Pearce said, they are looking for other places to work.

"Many of our best people are right now looking for other jobs," Dr. Pearce explained. "No one knows the exact number of teachers who will have to be let go, but I feel we have a moral obligation to aid any of those who wish help in leaving now."

Dr. Pearce, a member of a key committee at the school which is seeking to define what programs must be cut out or reduced, noted that between 50 to 80 from the 320-teacher staff probably will be dropped if the override fails. But no one is positive. Final decisions on this and all matters relating to changes in programs and policy must come from the Board of Trustees.

Dr. Pearce and the other members of the Committee on Instruction have compiled a set of criteria for the retention of courses. But no specific courses have as yet been selected as ones which will remain or go.

Here are the criteria for retention:

Group A (highest priority) — Course is essential for accreditation; course is required for an A.A. degree; course is part of a transfer program; course is a pre-requisite for another course; course develops specific skills for employment.

Group B (medium priority) — Course meets general education requirement; course meets a special educational need of some students; course assures breadth of offerings.

Group C (low priority) — Course is duplicated in some other division; course is one among several open electives; course is generally available at the high school level; course is readily available from other community agencies, course is primarily intended for employment upgrading; course could be offered less frequently or on a rotating basis; course serves a limited or special interest group.

Dr. Pearce admitted that some of those criteria are so vague that a case could be made for the retention of almost any course.

And, as the Board votes on the curriculum of the college system, so will go the makeup of both the factulty and the student body.

Thus, any attempt to determine what students and professors will most likely be affected by any cutbacks would be conjectural.

There has been considerable discussion on campus to assure minority group students (who make up about 12 per cent of the college population here) that they will not be deprived of the chance at an education.

"They have been told all these years that education is their one big chance at advancement," Dr. Pearce said. "It would be a shame to take it all away now." As of now, there is no firm guarantee that it won't be taken away.

Dr. Pearce said that, in addition to the troubles on campus, the future of the faculty staff appears less than encouraging as well.

"Usually we have about 1,000 applications from people who want to teach here in the coming year," he noted. "This year, we have about 200. We aren't hiring anyone now. The jobs are non-existent. We're just trying to retain our staff. Usually, we have the pick of the teacher crop. That's not the case this time."

Furthermore, any thoughts of alterations and improvements in the present curriculum have been suspended, Dr. Pearce said.

"We are at a standstill now. And no institution like this one can just maintain the status quo. All you can do is go downhill."

A defeat of the March 2 11-cent tax override for the College of San Mateo would also mean the loss of some state and federal funds.

If CSM's student body falls below 9,367 full time students (as it surely will if the estimated 17,000 students are cut out because of the defeat), the state will lower its per student aid to just $125, as opposed to the present figure of $661.

The total loss to the district, when last September's election defeat is thrown in, would be about $4.6 million, according to CSM Business Manager Matt Fasanaro.

Chancellor Clifford Erickson explained that the average taxpayer in San Mateo County is being asked to raise his taxes about 69 cents per month.

A "no" vote would save that same taxpayer about $1.43 per month, he said.

A man owning a $30,000 home would pay about $8.28 more per year in taxes if the measure passes.

Hilton Inn Robbed by Tall Gunman

A tall, well-dressed gunman who looked like a basketball player robbed the Hilton Inn at International Airport of $423 early Sunday.

A room clerk, James P. Christakes, 18, of Foster City, told Deputy Sheriff Denis L. Caron that he was behind the counter in the main lobby at 3:45 a.m. when the robber walked up, pointed a snub-nose revolver at him and demanded money. Christakes said he told the man he did not have the key to the cash drawer and the gunman ordered him to call someone who had a key.

The clerk called the cashier, William H. Sipe, 32, of San Mateo. When Sipe responded and asked if he could help, the robber thrust a brown paper sack at him and ordered him to put the money in it.

When Sipe opened the drawer, however, Caron reported, the gunman reached a long arm over the counter and took the money out himself, placed it in the bag and calmly walked out of the lobby.

The suspect was described as a Negro, about 30 years of age and 6-foot-5 tall. He was well-dressed and soft-spoken, witnesses said, and had a goatee, mustache and long sideburns.

Mass Transit No Panacea

shore is slowed by some 5,000 cars headed into the Santa Clara Valley with a like number commuting north from Santa Clara onto the Peninsula.

A transit study conducted by Simpson & Curtin, San Francisco Transportation Engineers, in October 1967, as part of the Northern California Transit Demonstration Project, revealed that some 156,000 vehicles per day flowed off the James Lick Freeway northbound into San Francisco every morning. This mass of impatient motorists returns home via the same roadway every night.

While many persons can be lumped into the "inter-city" and "intra-city" category of communters, there is an increasing number of "air-commuters."

The latter are persons who motor to the airport, park and fly to their business several times each month.

The magnet that attracts motorists on an increasing scale is the expanding San Francisco airport.

To better illustrate just how much traffic is generated as a result of the airport, James F. Carr, airport director, recently reported that revenue from parking amounted to $3.52 million in 1970.

(The same report revealed flight operations netted $3.59 million.)

Carr's figures do not include taxicabs, kiss and fly traffic or employes of either the terminal or maintenance facilities located at the airport.

Long before flight operations at the airport reach maximum potential, traffic to and from the airport will be congested beyond belief, experts predict.

The talk of solving this congestion by double-decking the Bayshore is economically unsound.

Such a project would cost far more than construction of a single purpose transit line, opponents of the proposal claim.

And it would only add to traffic congestion of city streets and air pollution — two targets most people would like to see alleviated.

Dahms disclosed another startling fact regarding mass transit.

In some cases fixed rail systems tend to contribute to the congestion they are supposed to relieve.

Rapid transit could stimulate high-density growth in areas already experiencing crowded conditions.

In other words, congestion could beget congestion unless careful planning is exercised, he said.

This planning must include a complete mass transportation network, with feeder bus routes and adequate parking facilities. Care must also be taken in location of transit stations, officials warn.

During a recent tour of possible BART routes between Daly City and San Francisco Airport, it was pointed out that location of a transit station at the United Airlines maintenance base in South San Francisco (on airport lands) would not be wise.

United's maintenance facility employs some 20,000 workers. The area is congested daily with men, machines, and autos.

To add a station in the vicinity would attract not only airport workers, but local residents as well, thus adding to the traffic confusion, transit experts explain.

Supervisors Change Five District Boundaries

District Two represented by Robert B. St. Clair lost East Palo Alto and East Menlo Park, but picked up part of San Mateo. Foster City is still within the district.

District Three represented by Gerald F. Day is now known as "the foothill district." It now includes Portola Valley, Woodside, Ladera, portions of Redwood City west of Alameda de las Pulgas and the Emerald Lake area. A portion of southern San Mateo as far north as Hillsborough and west of El Camino Real was taken out of this district.

District Four, represented by William M. Werder, lost Woodside, Portola Valley, a portion of Redwood City, Emerald Lake and Ladera, but picked up East Palo Alto and east Menlo Park.

District Five, represented by Jean Fassler, lost Colma, Bayshore City and the Serramonte area of Daly City. Because of the population growth in Daly City, no additional land was added to this district.

Generally, Tarshes reported, the limits of the districts followed city limits, spheres of influence of cities and freeways.

Population by districts is now: District One, 89,300; Two, 113,100; Three, 107,150; Four 123,600, and Five, 117,950, giving the county a total population of 551,100.

S.S.F. Orders Work

South San Francisco councilmen Monday agreed to spend another $3,500 for soil engineering work in evaluating the stability of the sanitary landfill at Oyster Point.

The money will be matched equally by the South San Francisco Scavenger Company, according to Geroge Stagnaro, company president.

Philip Burkland, of Gribaldo, Jones and Associates, asked for the additional $7,000 to complete work originally estimated to cost $8,000. He said the firm already has spent $13,600.

According to Burkland the reason for the additional cost is due to the fact installation of equipment came at a cost "considerably higher" than what was estimated.

The added monies, in addition to covering what already has been spent above the $8,000, will allow for preparation of a thorough report of the stability of the landfill site. It will pay for proposals and cost estimates of four methods of further stabilizing the area.

Burkland said the ground now is "moving at a slow and steady rate." He said there are no new deep slides confirmed that at this time there is no pollution of the bay.

S.S.F. Center Gives Reply

Charges that the South San Francisco-San Bruno Information Center is ignoring the Chicano community's needs aren't so, a Center spokesman said today. Chairman Emilio Franco produced a long list of past deeds to back up the rebuttal.

The Center's board of directors was reacting to charges made January 14 by a group of young Chicanos at a county Economic Opportunity Commission meeting, at which they said the Center board was "handpicked"; is "unable to relate to youth" and its director, Mrs. Eve Rendon, is "not trying to understand youth."

They also demanded Mrs. Rendon's removal.

The board statement today said it would welcome an EOC investigation.

The EOC has set a special meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday at Martin School in South San Francisco for the public to hear the facts.

Among the Center's major accomplishments of the last year, the board says, have been to help 709 people find jobs, referral of 356 to education classes and numerous services such as finding housing and assisting with income tax, bi-lingual translations and various family services.

Two Swords Are Stolen

Two sacrificial swords were taken from a broken display window in San Bruno Saturday.

Police said someone used a rock to break the window at George Mendenhall Enterprises, 876 San Mateo Avenue.

The swords were described as 24 and 36-inch Samoan swords. The wooden handled weapons were valued at $100 and $300.

Youth Booked in Robbery

San Bruno police have booked a 17-year-old South San Francisco youth for armed robbery.

Abel Miguel Leonardo Meuniot, of 2504 Bantry Lane, was arrested Thursday afternoon at a San Bruno motel.

SMJC to Swing Ax If Election Fails

Listening to what was termed a "meat ax blow" to the College of San Mateo, the Junior College District's Board of Trustees last night voted to enact a series of drastic cutbacks if a March 2 tax override election fails.

This is what would happen if the proposition — an 11-cent addition to the tax bill of San Mateo County homeowners — is defeated:

— Student enrollment will be cut from the present 25,000 to about 8,300.

— The three-college system will be reduced to a single campus.

— The school will drop 192 of its 427 classroom teachers.

— Thirty-three of the institution's 50 administrators will be cut out.

— Two-thirds of the school's 213 clerical workers will be dropped.

— There will be no more evening division.

— Summer school will be cancelled.

William Goss, president of Canada College and the chairman of a key faculty-administration task force which formulated those cuts in staff and program, said he and his fellows abhorred "these unhealthy cuts."

"We are on the verge of fulfilling our potential," he said to the board. "It would be a tragedy to have to dismantle this whole system now. A defeat on March 2 would decimate this district."

The budget for the coming year, provided the election fails, has been estimated to be $8.7 million. This is a drop of about 50 per cent from the present budget.

The board also voted to set aside an undistributed reserve of 10 per cent of the budget for educational services to meet any unforseen reductions in income or expenses and to use any saving this fiscal year in the coming year for an incrase in educational services.

In addition, the board determined to make at least three cuts in spending even if the tax election wins.

According to a recommendation suggested by Board President Robert Tarver (who did not attend the Wednesday evening meeting at the CSM main campus in San Mateo), the Board has decided to try to conserve funds in the following ways:

— In the coming fiscal year, the board will not vote to levy more than seven cents of the proposed 11-cent increase in the tax rate ceiling.

— Administrative costs will be reduced by at least 10 per cent in the coming fiscal year through a planned reorganization of administrative services.

—The district office, now located on Pioneer Court in San Mateo, will be moved from that rented space to district-owned facilities.

One speaker, Maurice Fitzgerald, president of the CSM faculty senate, said that the proposed cuts in the event of an election victory ought to "satisfy the citizenry."

"This is a recurring question," he said. "They ask us where are the cuts going to be made. I think this (the three-pronged recommendation) will satisfy them."

Suit Seeks to Halt Dumping

Suit has been filed in Superior Court by the city of Pacifica seeking to restrain Truman F. Denman, owner of Shamrock Ranch, from disposing of animal waste in a tributary stream to San Pedro Creek.

In a complaint filed by Pacifica City Attorney John R. Sherman, it is alleged that testing for bacterial content at the mouth of the tributary stream which passes through the ranch shot a bacterial count "substantilly above the normally acceptable for pollution in open waters."

A New Naval Program Set

The Chief of Naval Personnel has selected San Bruno Recruiting Station to take part in a new program which guarantees qualified young men a Navy school at the time of enlistment.

In the past, no such guarantee could be made until the new enlistee had completed recruit training.4

Effort to Ruin Image Feared

By JOHN HORGAN

There is a growing concern among officials at College of San Mateo that an attempt by radical griups will be made to sabotage the Junior College District's March 2 tax election.

The officials feel that certain groups of young people, some of whom attend the three CSM campuses, are dedicated to trying to present the citizens of the county with a negative image of local college students in order to get them to vote "no" on the critical 11-cent tax increase in March.

There was a taste of what may be coming at Wednesday night's Board of Trustees, meeting at the main CSM campus in San Mateo.

A dozen young people disrupted the meeting twice, finally leaving in a body at 9:57 p.m. Thirty-five minutes previously, a CSM student, Chris Schrager, was ejected by the school's president, Dr. Robert Ewigleben.

The young people, some of whom were not immediately identified as students at any of the three campuses, had interrupted the conduct of the meeting by yelling insults, laughing, bellowing obscenities and generally harassing the members of the board and anyone who tried to talk.

As the members of the board tried to vote on drastic measures to cut back on programs next school year if the tax election fails, the students voiced veiled threats of "worse things to come" in the next few weeks.

The students complained loudly about proposed cuts in student enrollment which, they said, would necessarily mean that Third World young people would be excluded from college. They also said that cutting back to one campus would mean that many disadvantaged young people living in outlying areas of the county would not be able to get to CSM's main campus because of the distances involved.

Behind that rhetoric, however, CSM officials said they can foresee a concerted effort on the part of some young people (not necessarily the ones at the Wednesday meeting) to ruin the district's chances to retain the current three-college system.

There have been reports that the latter part of February has already been earmarked for increased radical activity in conjunction with the election.

In addition, one CSM source said he is certain that some of the old hatreds stemming from the 1968 disturbances at CSM have not been forgotten by some of the individuals involved and arrested in them.

College officials are admittedly fearful that some of the elements involved in that campus strife (and some new leaders, too) are at work again to put a damper on the enthusiasm of the potential "yes" voter.

The board members, acting out of a sense of outrage over what occurred during their meeting, passed a resolution which tells the college administrators to take "the necessary steps for disciplinary action" to determine if violations of the college's student behavior code were made. If there were, the board said, the administrators have been told to act. They are also to report back to the board at their next meeting on the matter.

All three presidents of the colleges, William Goss, Phil Garlington and Ewigleben, objected to the motion as unnecessary because, in their opinion, the situation was one which pertained directly to the adminstration of the school involved, namely CSM.

It was also pointed out that Ewigleben did indeed eject one offending student.

Ironically, the bulk of the young people left the meeting room (singing together about "fascist" educational policies) during a report by a member of the Canada College faculty.

The professor was discussing that college's recent acquisition of a set of microdot reproductions of 20,000 of the finest works of American literature.

According to him, this acquisition represented virtually the finest single collection of such works in the nation.

But it fell on some unhearing ears — those of the very young people for whom those books are intended.

Political Charges Fly in Bruno Recall Election

By BOB PETERSON

With the March 2 recall election fast approaching, it seems everyone is getting in the game.

Councilman Dick Griffith, one of the council trio facing recall, recently released a statement that he would give all possible encouragement to stop construction of Freeway 380 west of Junipero Serra Boulevard.

He said the reason for his stand is to preserve Crestmoor Canyon, which he understands the Highway Department intends to use for dirt fill.

The political overtone is that the statement also included a reference to a 1962 council campaign in which, according to Griffith, the residents were promised the city would abide by a postcard poll on outcome of the 380 route.

"It called for rejection of the entire 380 route through the city," said Griffith. He elaborated further by blaming then-mayor Robert Price, a present council candidate, and Councilman Maurice Hamilton, who favors the recall, for "repudiating their promises."

"Mr. Griffith amazes me with his ability to close the barn door now that the horse is gone," said council candidate Dan Pecoraro.

Pecoraro hit hard on Griffith's "attempting to assume the role of champion of full public disclosure." He said, "The spirit of the disclosure concept was violated in the selection proceedings surrounding the appointment of the city manager.

"The interest of the voters, as well as the cracks in their sidewalks (a reference to Griffith's plan to have the city pay for all repair work) are of importance," said Pecoraro.

"But the people of San Bruno can accord these latest maneuvers the same suspicion as the Trojans viewing the wooden horse. History tells us to beware of Greeks bearing gifts," said Pecoraro.

Another candidate, Orville Wycoff, recently fired charges against Mayor Neil Christal. (Not to mention the now-pending libel suit between Wycoff and Councilman Ted Long).

Wycoff was responding to Christal's charges that Wycoff's only intention of heading the Recall Committee was to work his way to a council seat.

"The mayor challenges my integrity," said Wycoff. "It is ridiculous for the mayor to contend that anyone who is concerned enough to take leadership in the recall campaign should be eliminated from filing for office.

"Integrity is the vital issue in this election," said Wycoff. "But the mayor chants the appointment (of the city manager) is legal, totally ignoring the need for equity and propriety in the public business.

"The significant thing in this election is that more than 4,000 individuals signed petitions urging removal from office," said Wycoff.

Candidate Charles R. Hanley Jr.'s news release said there is "absolutely no logical explanation in trying to defend what was done, and done with premeditation."

He said that the three — Griffith, Long and Christal — "answered with righteous indignation, as if to say, how could you question such a brilliant piece of statesmanship."

As far as Hanley is concerned there is only one issue of the recall election. It is the procedure (or lack of same) used in selecting a new city manager.

So it is for most of the candidates. But many are not letting the opportunity for them to express their ideas on other matters pass them by.

Candidate Ruth Harris, for example, has been voicing her thoughts on ecology (which Long has been expressing, too) and the Teen Center (which Griffith says he has been constantly interested in).

According to Mrs. Harris' press release, the idea of small teen centers scattered throughout the city was hers.

Some candidates have publicity chairman. One is School Board Trustee Margaret Kozkowski. Right now the issue this chairman is explaining more than the recall is a statement made to the affect Mrs. Kozkowski intends to remain a school board trustee, even if she wins a council seat.

"If a conflict does arise, she is willing to give up her present school board position," said the release. "However as it stands now, she is fully confident that she can retain both positions and still accomplish all she intends to do."

Then, of course, there is plain talk. Like candidate Dudley Marshall calling the three councilmen's contention that minority councilmen George Corey and Hamilton had an opportunity to challenge the appointment "a bold face lie."

On and on it goes.

Pacific Tel Plans Bruno Expansion

Pacific Telephone will spend $8.9 million in the San Bruno area this year on new construction projects and for additional equipment.

In the San Mateo area, the company will spend $1.9 million.

Jack Head, manager of the San Bruno office, said the company will spend $5.3 million on installation of central office switching equipment.

Another $810,000 will be spent on underground cable to San Francisco International Airport.

The central switching office will serve the airport.

Underground cables are a big part of Pacific Telephone's construction program this year.

An underground feeder cable for Foster City will cost $146,000.

An underground distribution cable for the Rollingwood Tract in San Bruno will cost $20,000. Also in San Bruno, cable placement to establish a feeder cable through Tanforan Park and Sneath Lane will cost $48,000. Another $30,000 will be spent to install conduit from the office at 1101 San Mateo Drive to Euclid Avenue. Relocation of transmission facilities because of construction of the Junipero Serra Freeway will account for $40,000. Other spending in San Bruno and San Mateo will be for equipment.

Mayors Ask for North Jail Cells

The San Mateo County council of Mayors, voting on geographical lines, Friday asked the county to either provide jail holding cells for North County cities or to reimburse them for holding suspects until they can be transported to the county jail in Redwood City.

Mayor Neil J. Christal of San Bruno pointed out that jail holding facilities have been requested at a branch North County courthouse in South San Francisco.

Police Chief Russell Cunningham of San Bruno reported "North County beat officers" wonder why it takes South County patrolmen only two or three minutes to book a prisoner, while officers north of Belmont must take suspects to their own jail, book them, telephone the county jail and then take the individual to the county jail in Redwood City.

In September of last year, Cunningham said, it cost San Bruno an additional $700, and suggested the county provide equal facilities to North County cities as they do to those in the south.

"We would like to detain prisoners to a holding facility to be delivered to court the next morning, as in the southern part of the county," he indicated.

Mayor Bernard J. Lycett of Daly City suggested that if the county does not at least create a regional facility, it could reimburse North county cities for their additional costs.

1000 Join in Junior Trade Fair

By BILL TASSI
Post Correspondent

About 1000 high school students participated in the 12th annual Junior Achievement Trade Fair held Friday through Sunday at Serramonte Shopping Center in Daly City.

It was Serramonte's second year as host to the fair, which contained some 66 booths that were sponsored by 60 major companies, including United Air Lines, Southern Pacific Transportation Co. and Pacific Telephone.

Awards were given for the most sales, best booth and all-around superiority. This year the best Trade Fair company was Fire-Up Products, sponsored by United Air Lines which made a charcoal-barbecue accessory.

Runners-up were Bacco, Ampex; Pedal Pushers, P.G.&E; Youth Handcrafts, Van Waters and Rogers; Peninsula Products and Shell Oil.

The booth appearance award went to Suede-n-Stuff and Pacific Telephone and largest total sales went to Cosmo and Dalmo Victor.

The average company sold $90 worth of products.

The five judges are members of the Sales and Marekting Association of San Francisco.

Booths must be a general size and cannot be embellished with any matrials having to do with sex, war or religion.

Among the most interesting items of the Trade Fair were closed circuit television cameras and sets at the Ampex and Dalmo Victor booths. A person could see himself or herself on TV while walking by. When someone stopped to watch — which few could resist — he was given the sales pitch.

The chief purposes of the fair are to promote better public understanding of Junior Achievement, to give the students some real sales experience, and, of course, to display and sell their wares.

Pacifica Traffic Divison Formed

Pacifica Police Chief Mel Nelson announced the creation of a new Traffic Enforcement Division, as budgeted by the City Council, commencing February 1.

Officer Edward Burton, a two-year veteran of the department, has been selected to fill this newly created position.

To launch the new Traffic Enforcement Division, a new Radar Unit will be utilized to apprehend speed violators. Numerous reports have been received from citizens in both residential and business districts complaining of speed violators. The new Radar Unit should help alleviate this problem, Nelson said.

In addition to traffic enforcement, Officer Burton will be aiding Driver Education courses at both high schools, as well as providing instruction for safety patrolmen in the elementary schools. A bicycle safety program will also be initiated.

Frequent complaints of abandoned vehicles on our city streets will more readily be alleviated by new procedures, the chief said.

Periodic guest lectures to various civic groups will be given by Officer Burton discussing various traffic problems throughout the city.

Courses at Skyline Underway

Two succeseful Community Education programs which have become a tradition in a short time at Skyline College will be featured during the spring semester.

Open Recreation Night — each Monday evening from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in the main gymnasium will be available to the community and students. The program started February 1 and will continue through May 24. The semester pass is $3 for adults and $1.50 for students and children.

The Skyline College physical education facilities under the direction of Norm Friedeberg will make available to the community such sports and activities as volleyball, badminton, basketball, physical fitness, and weight training.

Persons under 18 must be accompanied by an adult with participants required to provide their own towels, locks, uniforms, and tennis shoes.

Beginning yesterday February 2 at 9 a.m. to 12 noon and running until June 1, Albert Wilson, noted botanist and garden commentator, is presenting the Home Gardening and Lands aping program at the San Bruno Recreation Center.

This is a non-credit course (identical to Horticulture 100A) featuring a study in the principles of home planting and maintenance; soil preparation; pruning; irrigation and various other aspects in gardening and landscaping.

Albert Wilson also is the author of the book "How Does Your Garden Grow."

Registration fee for this program is $10.

Post Deadline

News items intended for publication in the North County Post should be taken or mailed to 30 Park Plaza Drive, Daly City (94015), by 5 p.m. each Thursday.

Early Valentine's Day

Louanne Heath's Datebook

Valentine's Day arrives early for the women of the Holy Angels Women's Guild, according to Mrs. John Lagomarsino, publicity chairman for the guild.

Mrs. John Provenzale, program chairman, has announced a double-barreled event, which will combine the frivolity of Valentine's Day with the realities of monumental work performed by the St. Vincent de Paul Society, will be presented tonight during the regular monthly assemblage of the group.

Max Wegerbauer will outline the St. Vincent de Paul Society's approach to processing articles which have been donated to assure the needy receive maximum benefit from all contributions.

Following Wegerbauer's comments the ladies will auction a number of mysterious Valentine's Day presents, all in gorgeous holiday wrappings, totally unmarked and without any means of bidders being able to ascertain what the packages contain until after the sale.

Mrs. Lagomarsino indicated that the whole auction has been planned with an eye toward providing everyone with some amusing surprises and she urges all members of the guild to be on hand.

Mrs. Barbara Reich is still conducting the collection of rummage for the parish's rummage sale to be held on February 20. Persons with items to donate may leave the articles at the deposit center, located at 185 School Street, each Wednesday between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. or on Saturdays between 10 a.m. and noon.

More information about the sale and the types of rummage needed by the committee is available to anyone calling Mrs. Reich, 756-2850.

NEXT TUESDAY at 8 p.m. in Chaminade Hall, members of the Riordan Guild will be able to hear a panel discussion on the teaching of religion at Riordan High School, according to Mrs. Thomas Bocci Jr., of the guild.

According to Mrs. Bocci, Mrs. John Ferguson, guild program chairman, and Brother Rodney De Martini, head of the religion department at Riordan, have arranged to present a panel composed of members of the faculty and students from the Religious Department Board. Questions and answers will follow the more formal portion of the evening.

Mrs. Milton Blank, guild president will preside.

A FEW MID-SEMESTER OPENINGS have become available to parents interested in enrolling in the Village Nursery School program, sponsored by the Jefferson Union High School District's adult education division, according to Mrs. Nancy Moylan.

The Village Nursery School is a co-op pre-school program for children and their parents with the pre-schoolers attending nursery school sessions three mornings per week and the parents attending an adult class in conjunction with the school each Tuesday night and assisting in the student classroom of the nursery school one morning per week.

According to Mrs. Moylan, the school enrolls children between the ages of two years and nine months and kindergarten age. Classes are conducted between 9 a.m. and noon with all activities under the direction of Mrs. Kay Sighetti.

If you are interested in this program call Mrs. Moylan, 661-5726 any day between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., to arrange for a tour of the school or to obtain more information.

GREAT DECISIONS of 1971, the lecture series being sponsored by the League of Women Voters and the San Mateo County YWCA will begin tomorrow in Westlake and in San Bruno.

Mrs. Barbara Reich, publicity chairman for the YWCA, reminds everyone interested in attending these lectures on the vital issues of the day that pre-enrollment is necessary for either the meeting to be held at the Westlake Community Baptist Church or the one at the St. Thomas Lutheran Church in San Bruno. If you have not enrolled, call the YWCA office, 756-7370, immediately to place your name on the roll and to obtain the times for the meetings.

MEMBERS OF THE Mary's Help Hospital Guild are proud of the number of hours the volunteers spent working in the hospital during those busy pre-Christmas days of December.

According to Mrs. Mario Mangini, editor of Paging Pinafore, the guild's newsletter, 99 guild members and 50 "volunteens" contributed 2,229 hours during December. A fine record when one recalls the number of demands placed on our time while preparing for the holidays!

Newest localites to join the guild are Mrs. Virginia Badgis, Mrs. Ted Hesse, Mrs. Harry Hutchins, Mrs. John Kunkel, Mrs. John Novitski, Mrs. Beverly Rather and Mrs. Patricia Stone.

The women are just in time to sign up to assist in the preparation of items for the Christmas Boutique slated for November.

Mrs. Helen Corbett, chairman of the 1970 boutique, has announced that workshops will get under way this month in order to turn out a sufficient number of Christmas decorations, gifts and noveltiAes for the 1971 edition of the popular money-raising and novelties for the 1971 edition of the popular money-raising event.

The bride is the former Doris T. Ishida, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Ishida of San Mateo. Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Lazo Sr. of San Bruno are the benedict's parents.

When Doris approached the altar with her father, she was wearing a white satin and Chantilly lace gown styled with long lace Juliet sleeves and a high neckline. Lace appliques detailed her skirt and train and a silk illusion veil was secured by soft petals of illusion net also with lace appliques.

Amy Wada, the maid of honor, set the style of dress for all the attendants in a long sleeve floor length lavender gown. Two of the bride's sisters, Diane and Joan Ishida, shared bridesmaid duties with Leilani Lazo, sister of the bridegroom.

Sue Trimble served as the maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Kathryn Ciampi, Patricia's sister; Diane Lyons, her cousin; and Kathie Conde, sister of the bridegroom. All wore avocado green gowns trimmed with old-fashioned lace at the sleeves and neckline.

Mrs. Ciampi took her place in the family pew in a blue dress with a matching coat.

Wally Kulish was Eugene's best man, and guests were escorted to their pews by Joe Glover, Larry Dinkins, and Gary Moore. All are in the Marine Corps as is the bridegroom.

A reception followed at St. Michael's Hall.

JEFFERSON SCENE

By SUE McALLISTER and KAREN FOSTER

Cupid's Affair, the Sophomore Dance will be held February 11, from 8-11 p.m., in the Jefferson High Cafe. Music will be by the "Soul Sensations."

Since the Indians play the Terra Nova Tigers at Jeff that night, the doors will be held open until 9 o'clock.

The Jefferson C.S.F. Club visited the University of Santa Clara campus. Some wandered around the campus, absorbing the quiet atmosphere of the beautiful campus while others attended various classes — German, chemistry, and Torts (a Law School class).

The second semester has started and we here have a few thanks! To thank Joan Loskotoff for her great job as Pow Wow Commissioner . . . Linda Adreveno for her marvelous job as Commissioner of Clubs and Elections, and both for their dedication to the school . . . To Reno Taini for his great job with the Wilderness School and his help in the oil disaster . . . to Miss Barbara Schmidt for her patience in dealing with the Student Government Class.

MANY JEFFERSON students involved themselves in cleaning up the area's oil spill. Some of their observations and opinions:

IT'S QUIET FOR ONCE; you can hear others working, which isn't annoying. It's even so quiet, you can hear the birds singing outside, which means it's a good day — one of those days, that I think just start right. I can even hear Mr. (Donnal) Behm across the hall spelling words. It is still quiet. It sounds good, the birds in the background and hearing others for some reason, that I don't know why, brings back some old remembrances. I can even read my own handwriting pretty good this morning, even though that doesn't have anything to do with it. Maybe the whole rest of it doesn't mean much either, but anyway, it is still quiet! — Henry Giovenetti

I think the oil disaster could have been avoided entirely if people would just stop caring all about themselves all the time and watch and care about other people. I learned mainly that only in real desperation do people help one another; only when it's something that they care about and it's around them. It's sad that when tragic things happen it brings people together. It was beautiful to watch work being done and be with everybody when I worked. So many different kinds of people . . . — Jackie Hastings

There was no need for the oil disaster. I was out there for four days and what I witnessed was a very beautiful thing: People from all over coming to help and do what they could. My first experience was at Thornton Beach. As I was raking hay I noticed how every person was doing something to help another and working their heads off for no pay at all while the Standard oil men were getting a huge salary and eating free food.

These people acted as though they knew you for a long time and we really had fun and worked at the same time. I am from the Wilderness School at Jefferson High, and our students were out there taking time off to help when help was needed.

Many other students were out there showing how much they cared; working together. What was really out of sight was that food was available to anyone and everyone no matter what race, color, or language. I enjoyed myself very much even when I worked. The poor birds that have died are still remembered because of an unnecessary accident. Everyone really worked to help the poor helpless creatures. If you care you will help ecology by not helping pollute our ocean and Caring enough for everyone, even the wildlife. Happiness is helping those who need help. Do you care? — Melody Kline

The oil slick was a mess. It was an accident that it happened, but it did. It was really beautiful the way people got together and did what they could. The older people really blew my mind. They couldn't go out and work, but they brought food down for people that were working to eat. I really tripped out on something. The Bay would probably be that polluted in about nine years, but it all happened at once, and happened to us. A lot of people don't realize things until it happens to them and their environment. I don't know if the oil slick was so bad because a lot of people experienced a lot of things from it. — Jennifer Hastings

The first day I was at the oil slick was Tuesday. I went after school with a teacher from the Wilderness School. We went to China Beach. It was very nice working with the people, young and old! Tthe next day I went to Pacifica and there I went to collect food, and I got a lot. Then I went to the Marina and spread hay Wednesday night. I was really together. We had 15 people (in a truck) — two far out teachers and students, and there were no hassles. — Steve Severin

Art Guild to Seat Officers

Herman Loger, the new president of the Art Guild of Pacifica, will be installed February 8 in the Pacifica Library.

Other officers to be seated include Jacqueline DiCelo, vice president; Diane Poelheman, secretary; Patricia Wommack, treasurer; and Peter Gottschlag, Kaye Reinhertz and Dorothy Young, executive board members.

NELL NORTON

Sugar 'n Spice

GOOD MORNING, GOOD COOKS.

First things first; my thanks to you good cooks who responded to my plea for a Gumdrop Cake recipe. You were kind to take the time and interest to send them. They sound delicious and the lady who sought the recipe is happy to get them.

Speaking of cakes, I recently baked a spice cake that looked and tasted delicious and was easy to make. Interested?

MARBLED SPICE CAKE

2 cups sifted cake flour
1 and 1-third cups sugar
2½ teaspoons double acting baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
¾ cup milk
1½ teaspoons vanilla
2 eggs, unbeaten
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon allspice
1 tablespoon molasses

In a large mixing bowl sift the two cups cake flour, one and one-third cups sugar, two and one-half teaspoons baking powder and three-fourths teaspoon salt. Drop in the half cup shortening.Add the three-fourths cup milk and one and one-half teaspoons vanilla. Beat 2 minutes on mixer at low speed, or 300 strokes by hand. Scrape bowl and spoon or beaters. Add the two eggs and beat 200 strokes. Divide batter in half, add the teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon cloves, half teaspoon each allspice and nutmeg and one tablespoon molasses to one half and mix well.

Grease a 9x9x2-inch pan well and spoon the two batters alternately into pan. Run spatula through better to marble.

Bake in 375-degree oven 40 to 45 minutes. Frost with favorite topping. I used the folwoing frosting.

PENUCHE FROSTING

¼ cup butter
½ cup brown sugar, packed
2 tablespoons milk
About one cup sifted confectioners' sugar

Melt the fourth cup butter in saucepan. Add the half cup brown sugar. Boil over low heat for 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Stir in the two tablespoons milk, bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Cool to lukewarm. Gradually add the confectioners sugar. If frosting becomes too stiff, add a little hot water.

Now that we have our dessert planned, let's go back and think about an entree. This next recipe appeared in a midwestern paper and after trying it I want to share it with you good cooks. Combining rice and spinach with sausages, baked and served with a cheese sauce, it's mighty good.

The recipe calls for a pound of sausage, I used less, allowing 4 per serving. Let your budget be your guide.

SAUSAGE FLORENTINE

1 package (1 pound) pork sausage links
1 cup milk
2 eggs, slightly beaten
3 tablespoons minced onion
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 eighth teaspoon nutmeg
2-third cup quick-cooking rice, uncooked
1 package (10) ounces) frozen chopped spinach, thawed cheese sauce

Cook the sausage according to the directions on the package. Combine the cup milk, two eggs, three tablespoons onion, one teaspoon each salt and Worcestershire sauce, and one-eigth teaspoon nutmeg. Stir in the two-thirds cup uncooked quick-cooking rice and thawed spinach. Pour into greased shallow pan, 10 by 6 or 8-inches square. Top with the cooked sausages. Bake in 350-degree oven 40 to 45 minutes, or until set. Cut in squares for serving; top with cheese sauce.

CHEESE SAUCE

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded process cheese

In small saucepan melt the two talbespoons butter, stir in the two tablespoon flour and fourth teaspoon salt. Gradually add the cup milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add 1 cup shredded cheese; heat until melted.

Karen Beth Skellenger Is Wed to Michael J. Costanzo

Karen Beth Skellenger of San Bruno became the bride of Michael James Costanzo of Millbrae at Trinity Lutheran Church.

The couple, who exchanged vows before the Rev. Paul Huchthausen, are the respective children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Skellenger and Mr. and Mrs. Silvio Costanzo.

A long sleeved Empire gown trimmed in heavy lace was worn by the bride when she recited her vows. Seed pearls detailed her costume and veil. For travel, Karen changed to a camel hair pants suit with dark brown accessories.

Maid of honor for her sister was Janet Skellenger and bridesmaids were Nancy Skellenger, Bonnie Neary, Mrs. Donald Romero and Janis Wilchring. Their dresses featured dark green velvet tops and light green skirts with Victorian gold braid.

John Costanzo stood with his brother as best man and another brother, Ralph Costanzo, seated guests with Jerry Neary, Don Romero and Mike Mathis.

The Millbrae Community Center was the setting for the reception which followed the 7 o'clock ceremony. Anne Turner of Woodland Hills, the bride's cousin, was among the guests.

Karen and Michael are alumni of Capuchino High School and the College of San Mateo who are now seniors at San Jose State College. They will make their first home in San Jose after honeymooning at Lake Tahoe.

Bay Area Duo Plans to Be Wed

A family dinner party at the Millbrae home of Mr. and Mrs. George Roemer was the occasion for them to announce their daughter, Marguerite Moore, is the prospective bride of Wesley F. Leung. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leung of Burlingame.

The future bride, a senior at Mills High School, is the sister of Katheleen, Rosemary, Brian, Judy and Alice Roemer. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Hill of Fresno, the late Mrs. Virginia Moore Roemer of Los Angeles and the late Hubert Roemer of Toledo, Ohio. George Gordon Moore of Los Angeles is her great grandfather.

A graduate of Mills High School, the bridegroom-to-be is now studying at the College of San Mateo. Dennis, Charlene, Mary Anne, Ernest and Jeffrey Leung are his brothers and sisters. Wesley is the grandson of Mrs. Itao Fong of Hollywood and the late Mr. Fong of Shanghai, China and the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Leung of Minnesota.

Further wedding plans are incomplete.

SUSAN WALSH of Daly City, Miss San Francisco of 1969, and James William Crumpler have set a June 26 wedding date at Our Lady of Mercy Church in Daly City. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Walsh of 50 Northgate Court, Susan will be graduated in June from San Francisco State College, where she is a member of the Bib 'n' Tuck Sorority. The bridegroom-elect, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Codon of 1301 33rd Avenue, San Francisco, is seeking a master's degree in business administration at the University of California, Berkeley. He received his BA degree from S.F. State. The couple's betrothal was announced at a recent family gathering in Daly City.

County Resident to Wed in August

August wedding plans are being made by Lorie Strand of San Bruno and Robert Rizzo of San Francisco whose engagement was announced at a recent dinner party.

The future bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Strand and her fiance's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rizzo.

An alumna of Mercy High School and the College of San Mateo, Lorie earned her bachelor's degree in social science at San Jose State where she is now enrolled in the graduate teachers training program. She will receive her elementary teaching credential in June.

Robert studied at George Washington High School, Skyline College and San Francisco City College. He will attend classes in the fall at San Francisco State, where he hopes to earn his bachelor of science degree in recreation.

The couple will be married at St. Roberts Church in San Bruno.

Clothing Class 'Playschool' –Disney Theme

"MIC-KEY . . . MOUSE . . . MICKEY MOUSE . . . MICKEY MOUSE . . ."

This song might run through the minds of the girls in Miss Terzich's junior clothing class at South San Francisco High as they prepared their playschool. Playschool?

On January 20-21 girls hosted children from the Child Care Center. The children range in ages from two to 5½ years of age.

Walt Disney was chosen as the theme to be carried out in decorations. The plans include story telling, art classes, music, a skit, a haunted house and a playhouse.

"I hope it will be worthwhile experience for the girls" said Miss Terzich. The main reason for the playschool is to "help the students study the social, emotional, and physical development of the children," continues Miss Terzich.

A Reverse Oneg Shabbatt Slated

A Reverse Oneg Shabbatt will be held at 8:30 p.m., Friday at Congregation B'nai Israel in Daly City.

Traditionally Sabbath services usually are followed by a social hour, a "Joy of the Sabbath."

Last month's reverse Oneg Shabbat featured singing and dancing and met with such approval from the congregation that it will be repeated.

Sabbath services will be held on Saturday at 10 a.m.

Mincha, Maariv and Havdalah services will begin at 4:45 p.m. throughout February.

Rabbi Erwin S. Ruch and Cantor Julius Blackman conduct all Sabbath services.

NEW CLASSES

Two new classes will be offreed at Terra Nova during the spring semester, 1971. They are Music Analysis and Advanced placement Physics.

Terra Nova Topics

By Rockie Montenegro

Semester finals are over — at last — and student office petitions are now circulating on the campus. The Film Club announced that the amount of funds raised by its Ball January 22 was $200. The money will go to the proposed Pacifica Drug Center and Fleishhacker Center nor the Handicapped.

Tiger Tales, TN's quarterly magazine, is out. The 40-page news magazine features a detailed description of The San Mateo County Junior College tax-bond issue ("Skyline College—Here today, gone tomorrow"), "Pat Reed Spends 8 Nights with 27 Boys" (an "expose" on the outdoor educational program), and Ecology Action in Pacifica.

TN Principal Tom Panagoulias, was followed around for a day by a fearless Tiger Tales reporter, and a full report of his activities will appear in a "Day in the Life of Mr. Pan."

A student-teacher poll on The Declaration of Independence, conducted by Denise Buckley, turned out some very interesting results.

Terra Nova's International Relations Club is preparing for a three-day Model UN conference in February at UC Berkeley. This year Terra Nova will represent Czechoslovakia and Bolivia.

F.I.N.D. 'Share In' Planned

A "Share In" for FIND members and their friends will be held February 7 from 5 to 9 p.m. at St. Veronica Cafetoria, South San Francisco.

Local high school students will exchange ideas with Fr. Tom Schindler, SS, celebrate Mass and share a potluck dinner.

A light show by Dave Burns will conclude the program.

Over 80 high school students in St. Veronica and St. Augustine parish areas participate in the bi-monthly discussion meetings of FIND (Focusing Into New Discoveries).

The seven groups have had informal discussions with an attorney, police officer, clinical psychologist, priests, and theology students; launched a Christmas toy drive; visited St. Benedicts; and previewed films and filmstrips.

The seven advisor couples include: Mr. and Mrs. Tom Carrigan, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Driscoll, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Milani, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Schroder, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Martinez, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Teshara.

Interested high school students may contact coordinators Mr. and Mrs. Mike Ruane or moderator Sister Diane Morey, SV CCD Office.

Mayor Again?

THE GRAPEVINE HAS IT that Daly City's straight shooting mayor will be asked to continue as head of the five man council come April. When most cities in San Mateo County scamper for this post every year it is quieting to the nerves to observe that at least one city has confidence in the job the mayor is doing. But the fly in the ointment is whether Bud Lycett will accept the honor. The pressure, time and non-reimbursed money spent by Hizzoner may play a vital role in his decision.

AND SPEAKING OF reimbursement: There are rumors galore that some sort of investigation is underway (or soon will be) concerning funds spent by certain D.C. department heads for "entertainment." This is one area Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan doesn't sweat.

At one luncheon meeting last year Ryan treated newsmen to a cheese sandwich (must be a message there).

The last time at a South City "luncheon meeting" newsmen were treated to — a glass of ice water. Golly gee, talk about austerity.

A DALY CITY MORTUARY has asked the D.C. City Council for a use permit to expand their parking lot. The proposal doesn't agree with councilmen. However one member of the board is especially silent — Mayor Bud Lycett. The mayor's family owns and operates the W. C. Lasswell funeral home on Mission street in the city. Not the mortuary asking for the permit, however.

WE DON'T HAVE any idea at this time how many "closed door" meetings the Daly City council has held in the past year, but we'd wager at least one a month. Such sessions conducted in private are out of the public eye and may only be held (legally) to discuss personnel or pending litigation problems.

If the city is having this many personnel and legal problems perhaps an outside agency should be brought in to help bail them out.

Oh, we're not saying the meetings aren't all on the up-and-up. What we are saying is that it is doubtful whether other cities on the Peninsula are having this much trouble discussing their problems with their employers —namely the taxpaying public.

NICE OF THE FOLKS at Towne & Country Billiards to again sponsor some 35 Vietnam veterans to a day of free play at their Mission street parlor. The GI's stationed at Letterman General Hospital in the Presidio cued up last week.

OVER SOUTH CITY WAY a plaque made for the new swimming pool was sent back to the manufacturer and another plaque ordered. Seems the councilmen's names were made too small and the Superintendent of Parks & Recreation, architect and contractor's names were too big. You all laughing through your tears like we are???

INCREDIBLE AS IT IS, only two persons have filed to run for trustee of the Jefferson Elementary School District Board and only one person has indicated intent to run for the County Board of Education from the district. Are you ready for that? If you are, let's stop all the griping.

The schools now grab off the greater portion of YOUR taxes and seemingly few people give a hoot who controls this money.

If there is such a small amount of interest in the schools, howcum so much newspaper space is devoted to goings-on at board meetings? The way it looks from behind this battered typewriter is that few citizens — too few — are willing to share responsibility for what is happening in today's schools. If this were a "Letter to the Editor," instead of a column item, we'd probably sign it "Disgusted."

PEOPLE AND PLACES — U. R. Jack Kendree has finally agreed with his Gertrude to try retirement for awhile. Our guess is that spirited Jack will try the Good Life for about three months . . . And Northgate Transit Company's George Ferris told a luncheon meeting of the Mission Merchants Association that city attorney Albert Polonsky runs Daly City, not the City Council. Could be, could be!

THE SHADOW KNOWS that D.C. attorney William Schumaucher (JESD trustee and unsuccessful candidate to the D.C. City Council) is pulling all the strings he can to get that city attorney's post in Millbrae. The seat was vacated upon the appointment of Frank Piombo to the muni court.

Students' One-Way Bottle Ban

Three South San Francisco high school students have been awarded A's for an ecology-political science class project that led to passage of a city ordinance banning no-deposit cans and bottles.

Eugene R. Mullin, a political scientist who teaches the class with zoologist Robert Jacobs, says the success of the project has caused "a good feeling in the school."

"I felt it was a good example of the kids working within the system, and having the system respond," said Mullin.

The students who spearheaded the project were Bob Bowen, Dave Fassler and Maureen Kirwin, all 17.

"Whether our effort is symbolic or practical remains to be seen," said Bowen. "But it's a foothold on the way to our main goal—the gradual phase-out of all non-returnables."

The trio already has taken the campaign to two cities neighboring the city. They have urged the city councils of San Bruno and Pacifica to adopt similar no-deposit bans.

Also, state Sen. Arlen Gregorio (D-San Mateo) says he will urge the California legislature to extend the ban statewide.

The students undertook the project last September after learning that the City of Bowie, Md., had adopted such an ordinance.

They obtained a copy of the Bowie law and urged the city council to adopt a similar ban, launching a petition campaign that drew 1,200 signatures.

Opponents of the ban launched their own campaign and obtained 1,600 signatures, but the council adopted the ordinance by a 3-2 vote January 19.

The law will become effective July 1. It provides for a $100 fine or 30 days in jail for violations.

Opponents say they'll seek to have the law declared unconstitutional.

In attempting to persuade the Pacifica City Council to take action similar to that achieved in South San Francisco, student Dave Fassler backed up a letter with a verbal presentation.

The text of that message follows.

My name is David Fassler, a student at South san Francisco High School. On behalf of the students, I welcome this opportunity to speak before the City Council concerning the proposal of a city-wide banning of the sale of soft drinks and beer in non-returnable beverage containers.

In my view, a kind of suffocation by trash hovers over this City and this eminent Council. By taking up this measure, it will be addressing itself to the menace.

It is reported that Americans last year threw away 37 billion cans and bottles that had contained beer and soft drinks.

I submit that this is a squandering of the national wealth, which is intolerable. We are expending treasured natural resources to create mountains on unusable materials.

The necessity of doing away with one-way containers for beer and soft drinks is a philosophy that my colleagues at South San Francisco High School and I share with the cities of Bowie, Md.; Washington D.C., Richmond, Va., Modesto, Calif. and many other cities across the nation.

Litter was a main consideration in this proposed ordinance as well as garbage. Litter abounds in our residential streets as well as our highways. Bay fill is becoming non-existent so where do we "dispose" of our garbage?

It is true that cans and bottles do not constitute the biggest portion of our garbage and litter. That dubious honor is reserved for paper products.

Paper burns — cans and bottles don't.

Community safety is also another consideration in this proposal. Non-returnable bottles are hazardous because they have thinner walls, thus breaking more easily than two-way bottles intended for reuse. Therefore, there should be less fragmented glass on the playgrounds and in the parks of this city if the proposed ordinance is passed.

Use of returnable containers translates into an appreciable savings for the consumer. A survey by the Crusade for a Cleaner Environment condjcted in the Washington D.C. and Richmond, Va. areas indicated that, in those communities, a six pack of throwaway cans costs 20 cents more than a six pack of returnable bottles.

But more. A community that bans throwaways saves tax dollars that would have been spent for extra trash collection, litter clean-ups, land and bay fill acquisitions. (It is estimated that trash collection in this City will be $637 per month, not including the cost of sweepers, trucks, and personnel.)

In short, our commitment to propose this legislation is based on (1) the litter of these containers is destroying the quality of our environment, (2) the rising cost of gathering and disposing of these containers is becoming unreasonable.

As Mayor Green of Bowie, Md., said: "This legislation is an 'idea whose time has come.' It is economical, ecological, legally and yes, morally sound."

We applaud and commend governmental agencies: such as the cities of Modesto, Calif., Berkeley, Calif., Bowie, Md., Washington D.C. and Prince George County, and the Subcommittee on Health and Welfare of the House Commitfee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce for their governmental investigations and actions.

Ignorance and economics are no longer legitimate excuses for pollution. We are learning the hard way that the price of fresh water and a livable atmosphere is assistance to nature by adjusting and revising our technology so that it works with, not against nature, in supplying life-sustaining needs. Today we are finally beginning to realize that we do not want to "conquer" nature but to "co-exist" with it in a system where man benefits . . . but not at the expense of nature.

We must recognize the importance of technological, environmental relationship. We have taken only the first step toward what many hope will be a more rational world.

But if we exhibit an unwillingness to make any sacrifices, or resist the necessary change, we may find ourselves bogged down in the mire of a short-sighted past.

And if, as they say, we are "inventing the future," let us make sure we invent the kind in which we and our children will want to live. If we don't, we may have only ourselves to blame.

We truly realize that there must be some balance between economy and the ecology. Congressmen should consider giving tax incentives and legislative directions to industry to make the technological changes and adopt recycling methods.

Lastly, we are in a desperate race against the destruction of our environment. We, as citizens, must make sacrifices and reform our institutions if we are to insure a continued good life for ourselves and our children in the years ahead. Time is running out.

This legislation is one way in which you can preserve and improve the quality of our environment.

Honoring Pioneers

Perhaps this is the first time in the history of this newspaper that one columnist has elected to address an article to another — But here goes . . .

To Frank LaPierre: "Mindboggler" or not, let Daly City's main east-west route remain Knowles Ave. If something must change, let "the whole darn thing" be called the Knowles MemorialDrive.

The name is a link with dauntless, plodding figures who turned their backs on the gold fields of early California and settled on the sand that lies beneath the fair cities of San Mateo County.

"For these the first with patient toil
To break the clod and till the soil;
For all such men, since men began
We thank the God who made them men."

Israel G. Knowles built his house near the street that bears his name in August 1853 when the only improvements in the region were the first home of R. S. Thornton and the houses of James and Charles Clark — near the cemeteries.

WITH THORNTON, he was a leader in theso called "Battle of Colma that established the entire region as a site for homes and business areas rather than a fief for a privileged new.

For over 30 years thereafter he identified himself with the growth and best interests of San Mateo County including the Colma-Daly City area. His milk ranch predated John D. Daly's by many years. His land contained a gulch that he opened to the public to be the first public park. The pond on his land became a "place of importance" first as a fishing hole, then as a swimming pool and presently as Marchbanks Park.

I. G. Knowles left his home in Ohio in 1849 with a company of nine persons who traveled by ship to the Isthmus of Panama where they had to wait three months for passage to San Francisco. While he was in Panama, four of his companions died of fever — two more died while aboard the ship and another died soon after the vessel landed in San Francisco.

For two years, Knowles looked for gold along the Feather River area. Then he went to Sacramento to work for a dairy. From there he came to San Francisco and worked for Miquel Noe until he had enough money to realize his dream of establishing a milk ranch in the area now known as Daly City.

LET US KEEP HIS NAME on a major street — and let us adopt a policy of affixing the names of other pioneers to streets and buildings.

Why are our schools named after U.S. Presidents, while the names of our local leaders go unsaluted?

Why do we honor the memories of such men as Thomas A. Edison and Daniel Webster — great as they were, they had little to do with our area — while the names of the men and women who started the local schools and set them on the pursuit of their present excellence are never remembered.

A Ghost Follows

BY JAMES W. HALLEY
Post-Times Columnist

A ghost follows Senator Edmund Muskie about. The ghost is handsome, silver haired and can be recognized on a murky night as the remembrance of Presidential Candidate George Romney. The ghost is probably seldom seen by the candidate but often by Muskie staffers.

Romney's candidacy is mainly remembered for its remarkable disappearance. In mid 1967 it suddenly dissolved. When it fell from favor it didn't just fall. It dove. It plummeted. It rapidly and irrevocably vanished.

For a while Romney continued campaigning. But his head had been cut off — it just happened that he didn't try to turn it until later. When he glanced sideways at a surging Richard Nixon in the New Hampshire Primary he knew the awful truth and withdrew shortly before election day.

What happened to this front running candidate? The immediate catalyst of disaster was a remark made by Romney to explain a change of posture respecting the Vietnam War. He had, he said, been "brainwashed."

The remark was clumsy, and probably intended as a way of describing the effect of the public relations barrage of President Johnson and the military. But it wasn't all that bad. Foot in mouth is epidemic in political ranks but has rarely proven fatal. Far worse gaffes have been uttered followed by symptoms of temporary embarrassment, acute explainitis and supporter malaise. But Romney's case resulted in immediate decapitation. Why?

It is reasonable to assume that the robust Governor was really pretty ill before this mishap. A studied insight can be recalled: when asked about the effect of the brainwashing remark, Senator Eugene McCarthy commented that "a light rinse would have been sufficient."

So as Muskie staffers rap into the night they must come again and again to the enigma of George Romney. They can't help but wonder if their front runner is similarly vulnerable.

To answer this question, the ghost must be dissected. Romney, a decent man of great capability, had some of the elements of a sound campaign. He and his wife were charismatic and he had been successful in business, government and politics. His fund raisers were among the nation's most influential and his staff was very able.

But the minuses were formidable. In a time of high emotions his political home was in the center. His party credentials were weak and if he had a fundamental philosophy of government he didn't bother to articulate it. The press found him boring and vacillating and he had no visible grass roots organization beyond Michigan's borders.

In brief, he lacked support of strong ideology, exciting positions or a viable political organization. It must be concluded that Romney was going to fall from sight the moment real trouble came along for there was nothing to hold him up.

Muskie's staffers must see similarities and be working feverishly to establish positions and build organization. Up to now Muskie has enjoyed good fortune. In 1968 his underplayed part stood out on a stage full of rasping warriors. In 1970 he was invited into a dream situation. For 48 hours Muskie knew the speech President Nixon's political staff was going to play on national TV. For 48 hours Muskie could prepare a response and could call about the country seeking ideas and phrases to counter a speech, the full text of which he already knew. Little wonder he appeared relaxed and in command.

But politics is a game of pressure and pressure is rising. Mistakes are bound to come and when they do they will be seen and discussed by millions. Muskie's professionals must know they are in a wild race with time, for new strength will have to be developed before real trouble arrives. This strength can only come from philosophy, issue positions, and great organizational capacity at the grass roots.

Police Consolidation—II

This is the second in a series of articles dealing with the pro's and con's of a police merger and-or the consolidation of services.

Arguments against a total county wide police agency:

—Loss of an appreciation of local problems and the means for resolving them.

— Loss of control, ability to affect change, pride and prestige in their local force.

—Police administration would be removed from the close contact with local residents and political representatives.

—All cities do not have the same police problems and demands for services differ generally, according to the ability of the entity to pay.

—Higher wages and fringe benefits for some officers and administrators, along with the difficulties in standardizing entry and advancement requirements and salaries and benefits.

—The expense involved in the relocation of police facilities or the construction of new facilities.

Arguments for a countywide police agency and-or consolidation of services:

—Savings to taxpayer through central control and purchasing of equipment.

—Uniform control of traffic resulting from direction received from a central traffic bureau.

—Centralized records of offenders eliminate delays involved in searches of several police files. Reduced costs for storage, retrieval, and duplication.

—Better equipped and more fully staffed crime laboratory.

—Reduced possibility of local political influence under one administrator.

—More coordinated, knowledgeable and unrestricted investigative services not limited by political boundaries.

—Uniformity with regard to standards, recruitment, advancement and salaries, which would increase both efficiency and morale.

—Better distribution of manpower by the need for service rather than the ability to pay.

Police services are generally divided into three categories: Staff, auxiliary and field.

Staff services include recruitment, selection, training, staff inspection, internal investigation, planning, crime analysis, purchasing and public information. There are a number of cities which have successfully consolidated services in several of these areas.

Bloomington and Burnsville, Minn., entered into and successfully achieved a joint recruitment program, combining monetary resources for better advertisement and testing procedures while still maintaining different standards and pay rates.

There is a proposed plan presently being ndertaken by the California commission on peace officer standards and training to use regional advertisement and recruitment teams to develop interest in prospective police officers, then give initial screening tests at state employment offices.

The Post gives its columnists a great deal of latitude, offering its readers the benefit of knowledgeable, varying opinion. Their opinions are not necessarily those of The Post, which addresses itself to its readers only through clearly marked editorials.

D.C. Mission Merchants Elect Staff

The Mission Street Merchants' Association in Daly City elected their new officers for 1971 at a luncheon meeting Thursday.

Vince Merlo who took over the presidency of the Association following the resignation of Tom Stanghellini in midyear was elected to a full term by a unanimous vote of the membership.

Daly City councilman McRobert Stewart, a longtime member of the association, was elected vice president, while Beverly Dikas and Elna Greenwood were voted into the posts of treasurer and secretary, respectively.

In other action Delbert Fehl noted in his contacts with store operators on lower Mission Street it was brought out that many thought the Mission Street Merchants' Association represented only businesses at the so-called "top of the hill.'

Fehl said this impression was making recruitment of new members difficult.

It was decided to mount a publicity campaign to make these businessmen aware of this fact.

JESD Sets Hearing on Land Turnover

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Jefferson Elementary School District trustees have unanimously passed a resolution opening public hearings on their intent to convey a strip of land along East Market Street to Daly City for road widening.

The move came after Daly City city manager David Rowe made a lengthly presentation on the need for the parcel fronting Colma School Tuesday.

Rowe retraced the series of talks between various school trustees and staff and the city regarding the land turnover for the widening project.

He called previous unwritten agreements on the matter "gentlemen's agreements."

JESD trustee Mrs. Dorothy Adams informed Rowe "I have never entered into any 'gentlemen's agreements'."

Mrs. Adams also pointed out "I had no idea that acceptance of city land (for slope control at the George Washington School) would entail handing over of Colma (school) property."

Neither Mrs. Adams nor trustee William Schumaucher were on those school boards which had discussed the over-all matter with the city, Rowe acknowledged.

Both Mrs. Adams and Schumaucher observed they were willing to discuss what they considered to be safety features for school children around the Colma and J. F. Kennedy facility with the city.

Until these safety features are met, however, both trustees indicated they would oppose final turnover of the property.

The strip involves some 26,627 square feet of land fronting the Colma School site on East Market Street.

Daly City hopes to tie in the flood control project with the street improvements using gasoline tax funds. Such a move would save the city some $350,000 and relieve flooding in the hard hit Garden Valley area.

Rowe explained the flood control project must start in front of the school while other improvements are under way or the city would lose monies set aside for such work.

Without this link a bottleneck would be created inside the drain system flowing westward past the school, causing a backup and flooding.

The public hearing will be held February 9 at the school district building.

Westmoor Atop the NPL as First Round Ends

The North Peninsula League race, which was so clogged at the top a week ago six cases of Drano wouldn't have helped, has suddenly become neat, orderly and well-mannered as first-round action concluded Thursday.

Westmoor High School is now alone at the top with a 6-1 conference mark and a full game lead over both South San Francisco and Jefferson High Schools. The Rams may never look back from here on out. They ended the first round with a fantastic 97-85 victory over winless Half Moon Bay — fantastic in that both teams totaled 182 points in 32 minutes.

In other NPL action, Jefferson downed visiting South City, 67-60, Terra Nova beat crosstown rival Oceana, 66-53, and El Camino rallied to defeat shorthanded Serramonte, 59-49.

Half Moon Bay was red-hot from the floor, especially when sophomore Pete Peterson had the ball. The underclassman tallied 29 as the valiant Cougars made the Rams sweat all the way. Forward Jett Orlich again played an exceptional inside game with 27 biggees for the Rams, who now only need win their next seven to get the '70 title.

Jefferson went to the foul stripe 35 times, converted 27 of those charity tosses and went on to the seven-point win. Center Pinky Smith was amazing at the line. He hit 31 points, 15 on foul shots, and had a second-half stretch of 13 for 14. The smaller Warriors only got untracked twice during the game, took five point leads both times but fell back against the inside Indian attack. Al Viada hit three free throws in the last 28 seconds to keep SSF at bay.

Down by five at the end of three periods, El Camino had to resort to a full court zone press against Serramonte to rally for the victory. The Regents, playing with just seven athletes because of illnesses, got excellent work from center Cornell Clash and Ray Kirchenbaum. Camino's rebounding was done by center Steve Umland, who got only one point but 15 rebounds. Bob Marty and Steve Carroll sparked the layin-cluttered fourth period for the Colts.

Terra Nova, out of the title race and playing a looser type of ball now, slowed down the charging Oceana Sharks in the Tiger gymnasium. With center Terry Johnston held back by a high temperature and the flu, the Sharks were no match inside for the taller Tigers as Bud Papadakis and Bob Petty got 41 points between them.

A lack of height almost did in the Warriors January 26 as they just did edge lanky Terra Nova, 71-70, at SSF. The victory gave SSF a 5-1 standard and probably dropped the Tigers (2-4) from all 1971 title hopes.

Floor position and smart ball-handling counteracted a Tiger front line that averaged over four inches more in height. Junior center Brad Lefler and senior forward Mike Young both did a creditable job of stopping the Tiger inside attack while going to the boards one-for-one with the Tigers.

Virtually scoring at will off their pressing defense, (they ended with a 57 per cent shoot-

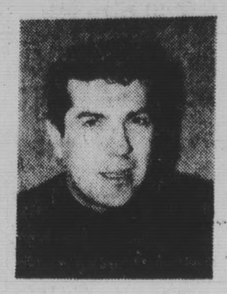
History While You Wait



LE PACINI

Sportscripts

If you're one of those football fanatics who can't wait the two or three weeks before football season starts again, you could do worse than to peruse the "Illustrated History of Pro Football" by Robert Smith.

While, as the title subtly suggests, it is a "picture" book, it is more than just one of those glossy "gift" books that show up every year around Christmas time, pictures scattered randomly, text dull. Pictures abound, but they are not just pictures. They are some of the rarest old football pictures in captivity (many from the author's private collection), most of which have never been published — and they tell a story in themselves.

The text of the book is well done, knowledgeable, and interesting, especially in Smith's meticulous tracing of the origins of football.

We particularly enjoyed reading of the period of the late 19th century and early into the 20th, when college football as we roughly know it now was emerging, and how its mutation laid the seeds for pro ball.

It is Smith's eye for unusual small detail which makes this period of football history live.

For instance, we'll bet you almost anything that you didn't know that the name for the smocks many people wear in their daily work is derived from football. The original smock was designed and first made by Louis P. Smock, a Princeton grad, class of '79, and was adopted as the standard football uniform for a group of eastern universities which was to be later known as the Ivy League. It was a single piece overall outfit with padded knees, a sort of jumper, with a lace front.

And if we asked you, in one of our periodic quizzes, if the baseball great, Christy Mathewson, ever played pro football, we'll bet you'd answer no; and you'd be wrong. Mathewson not only played a season of pro football, but in that one year became noted as the best punter in the game.

A FULLBACK, MATHEWSON played for a professional club in Pittsburgh in 1902. The really amazing factor in this story is that in 1901, his first full season in the majors, Christy had won 20 games. For some reason, the Giants either foolishly consented to allow Mathewson to sign with the Pittsburgh football team, or he did it without asking permission and, communications being what they were in those days, was able to conceal his involvement for the season.

It wasn't at all unusual, in those early days of pro football, for baseball people to moonlight at the game. Chuck Dressen was George Halas' first pro quarterback.

Connie Mack sponsored a pro football Athletics, and even allowed his great left hander, Rube Wadell, to play fullback for a game or two. It was, in fact, Mack's Athletics which lost the "World Championship" of professional football to Mathewson's Pittsburghs in a playoff after a Thanksgiving day tie game had failed to break the deadlock for league championship. That game, incidentally, spelled finish for the original National Football League.

Why, even Halas started out as a baseball player, turning to pro football when he failed to make the grade after a cup of coffee with the Yankees as a right fielder (two hits in 22 times at bat).

And do you think pro football is tough nowadays? In the late 19th century a man could get kicked out of a game for slugging an opponent, just like now. Except in those days, the player was given a one punch grace. The first pot-shot was always considered a "gimmie," a natural extension of a tough game, a thing to be expected. It was only after a player slugged an opponent the SECOND time that he was removed from the game.

Dick Butkus tough? Why, there was this early day great from Columbus, Ohio, named Al Nesser, who didn't wear a helmet, kidney pads, nothing! Of course, that wasn't too unusual, because hardly any of the players in those days wore helmets or kidney pads. But Nesser didn't even wear, what you would call in polite society, an athletic supporter! Still, he was he was considered one of the toughest of the ancient linemen (he was an end) and played his last game for Cleveland in 1931, still not wearing one.

Kids nowadays would have loved to play football in the late 19th-early 20th century, because there would have been justification for their long hair. Nobody wore helmets, but they did all grow their hair as long and thick as they could, using their piled-up hair for skull protection. Does Joe Namath need a helmet, even today?

THE FIRST PRO TO WEAR a helmet was Marcus Saxman, a Swathmore College grad. Marcus wasn't a sissy. It's just that he was billiard-ball bald.

Ironically, with all that "lack" of protection, there was seldom, in that era, an injury more serious than a broken nose or fractured arm or leg. It wasn't until equipment became more "sophisticated" (IE, hard, unyielding) that football began producing the broken necks, the career-ending "knees", etc.

Several years ago we did a series of articles on modern football equipment and, after remembering our days of sandlot tackle football, when we wore no protection and seldom got more than skinned knees, and discussing the subject with experts, we came to the conclusion that football would be much safer played with an absolute minimum of protective equipment — soft, yielding equipment.

Since that series, manufacturers have come out with even more "sophisticated" protective gear, as hard, as unyielding as ever.

We can only conclude that our series swayed no one.

One last note — our favorite one, on early day football. One team had a jersey made up with a pocket in it to hide the ball. You talk about today's deceptive football!

REGULAR READERS may remember that several months ago we did a column on the current system of rating baseball's relief pitchers, and called it something just short of a farce. Our primary complaint was and is that the current rating system adds up only the pluses in the "games saved" column, not accounting for the games relief pitchers FAIL to save. We advocated that someone figure out a system of checks and balances, whereby points could be subtracted from the records of relief pitchers who fail to come through when they're most needed.

A recent article in The Sporting News featured a baseball statistical nut from Indianapolis named Richard Duglin who has figured out just such a system because, the Sporting News says, he "takes umbrage in the fact a lot of relief pitchers gain too much credit for their work while others are woefully shortchanged. He says some short men are overrated and a lot of middle relievers are lost in the shuffle."

Basically, Duglin's system works thusly: it takes into account such things as the game situation when a reliever enters, and if the reliever keeps his team in the game prior to his leaving. He awards five points for saves gained facing the tying and-or winning run, two for cheap saves (more than three runs ahead), and five for the middleman who kept his team in the game by not allowing the situation to get worse. If the pitcher doing the work in the middle innings allows a bad situation to get worse, he is given five demerits.

IF NEW SYSTEMS of baseball statistics thrill you, you might be interested to know that Willie McCovey had the highest P.W.A. average in baseball for the second straight year.

P.W.A. stands for "Player Win Average" and is a system worked out by Computer Research in Sports, Inc., which attempts to determine who the "winningest" players are offensively.

The P.W.A. is based on a series of offensive variables, such as percentage of times moving runners into scoring position, times batting in the tying and winning runs in late game situations, etc.

McCovey's P.W.A.s, incidentally, have been .648 and .677, respectively. We're not exactly sure what it means, but it sounds good.

TAG END: What impressed us most about Notre Dame's win over UCLA other than the win itself, was the fact that they won without the gimmickry of stalls or a slow-up or whatever. They went out and played their game and won it straight — by beating the hell out of the Bruins.

THE POST'S SPORTS

WHS, Shark Booters Tie

Westmoor's varsity soccer team battled to a 2-2 deadlock with a rugged Oceana Shark squad January 28 at Oceana.

The Rams drew first blood when right wing Brian McNamara powered a penalty kick into the nets to give the Westmoor booters a 1-0 lead

McNamara continued his performance with a second goal in the second quarter. He dribbled past the Shark defense and put in a close range shot.

A talented defense, led by all-leaguer, Steve Peters, and Stan Lotz tried to stop the Shark attack, which decimated the Ram defensive wall and forced the first liners out of action due to injuries.

The less experienced second team men were unable to prevent Oceana from finding the net, and two tying Shark goals came in the second and third quarters.

The Rams booted their way to victory January 25 with a 1-0 victory over the Riordan Crusaders in a non-league game.

Nearly the entire game was played in the Crusader half of the field. Right inside, Sam Escobar broke the scoring ice with a second period goal, which proved to be the margin of victory.

Fallback Stan Lotz was the stand-out performer for the defense, as he continually swept the ball away from the Riordan attackers.

SSF Seeks Managers for Baseball

Managerial and coaching personnel are being sought by the South San Francisco Youth Baseball Managers Association for the 1971 baseball season.

Adults over the age of 21 are sought to manage one of the Midget, 13 and Under or Pony league teams. Coaches are also needed to assist managers of currently existing and new teams.

The Youth Baseball Managers Association meets the first Wednesday of each month on a year around basis at the Magnolia Recreation Center, Grand and Magnolia Avenues.

Persons interested should contact either Association member Frank Gelini (761-0216) eves, or Recreation Supervisor Bob Aronson, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Frosh-Soph Win for WHS

Westmoor's frosh-soph basketball team defeated the El Camino Colts 67-43 January 26 in South San Francisco.

Rams began the onslaught at the outset of the game. With Leo Biederman hitting the boards and scoring from inside along with the outside support of Al Fortis, the Rams moved out to a 39-20 advantage at halftime.

The Rams methodically increased their lead throughout the remainder of the game and coasted to victory.

Leo Biederman and Al Fortis shared high scoring honors with 19 points each. Ron Johnson played a good defensive game and scored 11 points. Bergi was high for the Colts with 14 points.

Bike Rider Just Misses

HOUSTON — San Bruno's Mark Brelsford is still wondering how he lost out on winning the biggest victory of his young life Saturday night in the Astrodome.

With some 37,000 rabid fans cheering on, Brelsford's bid for victory in the rich $10,000 pro motorcycle championship was denied by the length of less than a wheel at the finish line after a orrid stretch duel. Hanging it on the 20 year-old San Brunan was Fremont's Jim Odom, who was clocked in 6:54.84 for the 25-lap main event.

Odom drove a Bultaco, while Brelsford was aboard a Harley-Davidson. Brelsford's Harley teammate, Mert Lawwill of San Francisco, the 1969 national champion, had set the early pace but spun out on the 13th lap of the race.

In the Junior Main, Redwood City's Kenny Roberts piloted his Yamaha to a surprise victory to give the Bay Area a sweep in the championships. Roberts is 19 years old.

ing average) the Warriors were able to mount a quick 11-4 lead in the first period before Jeff Wellemeyer's two quick buckets lead the Tigers back to just a three-point quarter defecit.

Three different times in the second quarter South City built up better than 10 point leads but each time the Tiger musclemen forced their way inside to close the gap back down to three. Forward Bud Papadakis scored 18 in the first half to keep TN in contention.

But Young went wild throughout the third period scoring 10 points in the final five minutes on the way to his 24-point effort. But he had little help and with Gene Mackey, the Warrior sparkplug, on the bench with foul problems the Tigers rallied back again and took their first lead, 36-35, just two minutes into that period.

The pattern stayed the same the rest of the way. South City would get seven-point leads — TN would rally right back. Finally, Mackey got back in the action, keyed two straight fast-break layins, both off steals, and the Warriors were up for the final time, 69-68, on Marty Gale's layin with one minute left.

Lefler hit a layin off a Terra Nova turnover with five seconds left and the Warriors sat back and let the Tigers score the final bucket to run out the clock.

Padres Defeated by Bells

Excitement was not one of the distinguishing factors marking the West Catholic Athletic meeting between the Serra Padres and the Bellarmine Bells Thursday.

Execution, however, was.

And unfortunately for Serra, most of the executing was done by Bellarmine in a manner expedient enough to attain a 62-55 victory over the Pads in the sparsely attended contest held within the rafters of San Jose Civic Auditorium.

Bellarmine ran a tightly structured and strikingly potent offensive pattern against Serra's zone defense which, on more occasions than the Padres will care to remember, loosened one of the Bell frontliners underneath the hoop for high percentage shots.

The Pads used some man-to-man defense in the second half but the Bells went into a looser fast-break offense which they also executed quite well.

In the first period Serra was hurt by numerous turnovers on bad passes and mental errors. The Pads do not have a threatening offense and they can not afford turnovers of the nature they committed early in the contest.

The Bells were quick to take advantage of the situation.

They came down court and consistently went into their effective offensive pattern which provided them with a 32-22 half-time lead.

Capuchino Bows

Knights' Twosome Too Much 46 WHS Mid-Term Grads

By JERRY LITTRELL
Post Correspondent

The duo is a holdover from a rugged championship squad. They have been through this mentally-straining title route before. The battle scars stand out and the maturity they add to this year's team has been invaluable.

Forward Vance Schram and guard Ed Kertel, the only two playing remnants off last year's Hillsdale championship basketball team, are the adhesive binding that has pulled Homer Zugelder's methodical Knights into a 6-0 first round Mid-Peninsula League record.

The Knights ended the first half of conference play Thursday with a steady 48-43 victory over Capuchino's potentially powerful Mustangs. Hillsdale forced the Mustangs out of their run-and-shoot offense in front of an appreciative packed house in San Mateo. And, as has been the case recently, the Knights did it again with a suffocating defense that completely shut off any shots around the perimeter.

Like two mother hens, Kertel and Schram watched over the brood and when the time was right in would zip a pass to center John Morton. The 6-4 pivotman, a vastly improved inside worker, responded with one of his best efforts — 17 points and 10 rebounds.

It was a strange game in many ways. The first half was not well played but it was effective for the Knights. In fact, Capuchino got just three buckets in 16 minutes, all by forward Steve Newberry, and still only trailed at intermission, 18-16. Three Cap starters didn't score in that first half as Newberry's buckets came at four minute intervals.

Hillsdale had its own scoring problems in the second period after taking a 13-8 quarter advantage. The Knights didn't score for four full minutes allowing Cap to close to a 13-11 margin. It wasn't until two minutes were left in the half that someone other than Newberry — this time guard Keith Hernandez — was able to find the bucket for Cap.

Sloppy ball handling, often a Cap strong point, was the Mustangs' undoing. Usually a times in the first half and 10 more after the break. With Morton getting three quick third period buckets off three excellent passes, the Knights were able to stay safely ahead for a while. But the Mustangs kept chipping away and made it a one-point game until five minutes remained.

Kertel, who has the face-saving knack of almost immediately making up for any mistake he might make, stole a pass back he had just thrown away, scooted in for a short jumper and Hillsdale led, 40-35. Just as Cap was making a mild run at that lead Schram hit two free throws for another four-point bulge.

Harold Varni's Fourth Pass Was 'Out The Door'

Harold Varni, Exposition Fish Grotto maitre'd, set his sights for Reno, visited a handy casino and hit the Crap table. He made three passes in a row and decided to let the bundle ride. On the fourth roll-out Harold tossed a neat, little ace-deuce with the stick-man scooping in Harold's entire wad. Bewildered, Harold looked at the guy and said, "What happened?" Next shooter, please . . . Enrico Romano, otherwise known as "The Anchovy Apostle of the Coastside," spends hours each day in the kitchen, preparing the ingredients that are eventually piled atop the mouth-watering pizzas he serves by the hundreds each day. Romano's Italian restaurant, located in Pacifica's Rockaway Beach, is famed for these pizzas, not to mention the outstanding Italian style family dinners . . .

Harold Varni

Franklin Mieule, owner of the San Francisco Warriors basketball team, and Ed Gottlieb, who owned the team when they played in Philadelphia, huddled over a steak dinner at Lew Lehr's Steak House in San Francisco's Marina District. They complimented Lehr on the great service, and extra-choice, cut-to-order steaks.

A. Sabella's, on San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf, dates back to the year 1920 when Antone Sabella opened a small seafood business. Throughout the years, the business has flourished and has always remained in the original family. Owned and managed now by Lucien Sabella, the three-story restaurant is known throughout the world. Just ask any of the thousands of tourists who flock yearly to San Francisco . . . Ansara's in Redwood City challenges the buying acumen of all Bay Area restaurants by offering a choice of two outstanding dinners, each priced at $2.95. You may decide on either a Top Sirloin Steak or Shish Kabob Flambe, both served as complete dinners, with choice of soup or salad. These are only two of the many food specials found at Ansara's, where real bargains are presented daily during luncheon and dinner hours . . . Currently appearing in the luxurious Deacon Brody lounge of San Mateo's new Royal Coach Motor Hotel is Hank Faulkner, well known guitarist and folk singer. Talented Hank, who has performed at several Peninsula niteries in months past, is an excellent musician and entertainer. . . .

Lucien Sabella

The New Southern's Reno Donati will be taking a short vacation next month, with sunny Palm Springs being the destination. It will be a golfing holiday for the industrious restaurateur. He's taking his clubs and plans on meeting buddy Larry Bertolucci down there . . . Senior Citizens, now hear this: There's a special menu at Foster's Farm-Fried Chicken House (served Mondays through Fridays) which features a full course meal priced at only $1.25 — and it's just for you. All you do is show your Medicare Card for identification. This $1.25 special is valid only from 11:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. . . . If you happen to be headed toward Lake Tahoe, regardless of your mode of transportation, be certain to check out Park Avenue Tours and their many refund offers. You can either take a bus or drive your own car, but you're still sure to save money. For further information, contact any of Park Avenue Tours' four Bay Area offices . . . Although Vince's restaurant specializes in seafood and Italian dishes, you'll find such favorites as Corned Beef and Cabbage (the Thursday Luncheon Special) and Pot Roast of Beef to be among the extensive list of entrees. If you're hungry for a New York Steak, it's seasoned and broiled to your liking.

Reno Donati

Combining an unusual mixture of fast comedy and ventriloquism with musical routines, Teter and McDonald will present a versatile show at the San Francisco Playboy Club February 1 through 13 . . . The owners of the recently opened Chinese House have decided to take at least one day off. Which means their Burlingame restaurant will be open Mondays through Saturdays (at 11 a.m.), and closed on Sundays. Serving both Chinese and American food . . . A remarkable food value has been added to the regular menu at Hillsdale's Steak Inn. A creation of Owner Joe Acosta, well known Peninsula food merchant, it's a Combination Steak and Lobster Platter tabbed at $3.49 (includes baked potato or French fries and a toasted French roll). Other menu choices range from Ground Round to a $1.79 New York Steak . . . There's dancing and live entertainment seven nights a week at Deejay's. Two different bands are marqueed at this elegant Belmont nitery. The Loading Zone, one of the top rock groups on the West Coast, perform on Monday and Tuesday nights, while the Sound Barrier provide their dance sounds Wednesdays through Sundays . . . "Serving superior food" is the reputation established by the House of Troy in San Carlos. Open seven days a week for both luncheon and dinner, this cozy restaurant holds much appeal for one and all.

Jim McDonald

Claude Schroeder, popular food and beverage manager at the Holiday Inn, South San Francisco, is one of the nattiest dressers on the local nitery scene. Schroeder seems to have a special penchant for neckties — and he must own at least a hundred . . . San Francisco's famed Footprinters Club, 150 strong, took over the Exposition Fish Grotto and delved into a cioppino dinner. Upon leaving, nothing but raves to Manager Augie Rosasco . . . Nick Gust's "Two for the price of one" "Mexican Combination dinner, which is creating much food comment in the Bay Area, has been so well received at The Papagayo Room in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, that the offer is being extended through February 28. All you do to be a part of the action is clip the coupon in Nick's advertisement on Bright Lights and give it to your waitress any Sunday through Friday. Restaurant is not open Monday or Tuesday . . . Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City is in the run for top honors in the Prime Rib field. The portions served here cater to gusty appetites. Dinner is an unforgettable experience. All entrees are accompanied by a huge baked potato and plenty of fresh, creamery butter. A tossed salad topped with your choice of dressing, plus a basket of warm, garlic French bread gets the meal off to a savory start.

Nancy Marie Ross Says Vows at Millbrae Church

Carmel, Disneyland and Mexico are the honeymoon destinations of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Regis Shimet who recently exchanged vows at St. Dunstans Church in Millbrae.

The bride is the former Nancy Marie Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ross of Millbrae. Her bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ted Shimet of Daly City.

For her wedding, Nancy wore an Empire Victorian styled gown detailed at the bodice and sleeves with lace and with peau de soie at the skirt and train. For travel, she changed to a navy blue pantsuit accented with red and white.

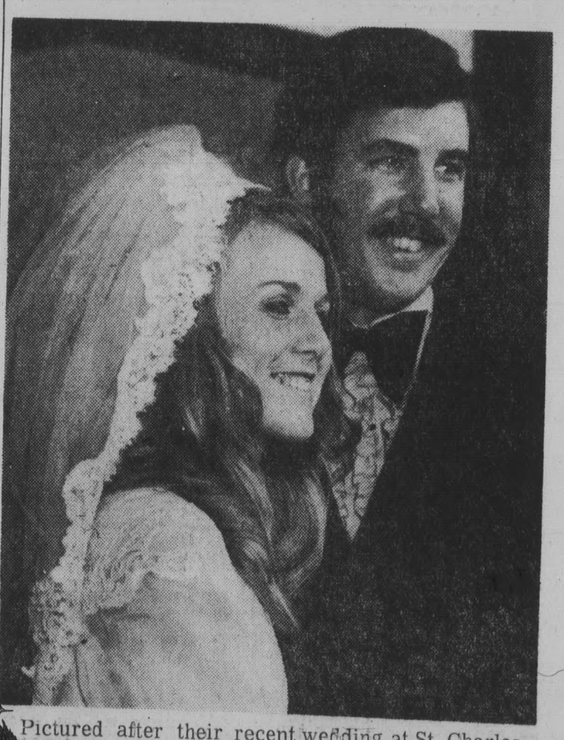
Sole attendant for the bride was Linda Lee Mayer of Burlingame who was dressed in a moss and lime green long shirtwaist dress. George Godfrey of San Carlos served as best man and John Monjar of Saratoga, the bridegroom's godfather, seated the guests.

Guests at the reception which followed at the San Mateo Elks Club included Mrs. Thomas R. Stanes of Hamburg, N.Y., maternal grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Mae Pruitt of Vacaville, the bridegroom's grandmother. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Mel Mansuette of Los Angeles and Mr. and Mrs. Harding Fabre of Morgan City, La.

The bride is a graduate of Mills High School and the College of San Mateo. She is the sister of Linda Ann Ross, a student at the Sisters of Notre Dame School in Dallas, Tex., who attended the wedding.

Wayne, who also earned his associate arts degree at CSM, is an alumnus of Westmoor High School. He will attend classes in the fall at San Francisco State. He and his bride will make their first home in Daly City.

Palo Alto is the first residence of DereckDragonetti and his bride, the former Anne Marie Busalacchi. The couple, who was married at St. Dunstans Church in Millbrae, honeymooned in southern California. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gasper Busalacchi of Millbrae and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Dragonetti of Burlingame. (Photo by Coleman)



Pictured after their recent wedding at St. Charles Catholic Church in San Carlos are Mr. and Mrs. Louis John Serochi (Claire Louise Salvato) who honeymooned in Mazatlan, Mexico and are now living in South San Francisco. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Frank Salvato of San Carlos and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Serochi of Mountain View. (Photo by Coleman)

Fontana Files for Re-election

Incumbent Elio A. Fontana filed his nomination papers today for election to the San Mateo Junior College District Board of Trustees.

Fontana, 52, who was appointed to the board last year, joins two other incumbents, Eleanore D. Nettle and Carl E. Ward, in seeking return to the board in the April 20 school elections.

Mrs. Nettle and Ward filed their nomination papers last week.

Fontana, president of V. Fontana and Company, a Colma monument manufacturing firm, coupled his filing with an appeal for support of the district's tax increase proposal to be submitted to voters in a special election March 2, stating that passage is "absolutely essential to the maintenance of junior college education for the people of San Mateo County."

Fontana was appointed to the board to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of U.S. Simmonds Jr.

Bird Rescuers Lauded by Pacifica Bd.

Everyone involved in cleaning up Pacifica's beaches following the recent oil spill has been lauded officially by the City of Pacifica.

That city's Resolution No. 12-71 expresses its "sincere thanks" to those involved in the "immediate and heartwarming response."

The list included the "many willing individuals, young and old, from far and near, who worked around the clock to rescue birds," the American Red Cross and other organizations providing food and services for workers, Standard Oil for promptly bringing in skilled workmen, special equipment and complete support, contributors of food and materials, members of the municipal staff "who met the challenging problems with skill, imagination and unselfish effort."

Crash Victim Nabbed for Pot

A Daly City accident victim was arrested for possession of marijuana at Mary's Help Hospital where he was being treated for minor injuries Friday.

Curtis J. Lecompie, 30, of 156 Belcrest Avenue, was taken to the hospital for treatment of a scalp laceration after his car hit a parked car at Higate and Grandview about 3:30 a.m.

A nurse found a package containing what appeared to be marijuana in Lecompie's clothing while looking for identification, police said.

Three-Year Accreditation for Skyline

All courses taken by Skyline College's first graduating class will be fully transferable and accredited, Philip C. Garlington, college president announced today.

Accreditation was announced last week by Dr. Harry Wiser, executive secretary of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges Accreditation Commission. He pointed out that Skyline had received maximum three-year accreditation for a community college.

"This means that Skyline College like its sister institution, Canada, has been awarded a high honor and distinct recognition. It is unusual for a two-year college to receive full accreditation for the full three-year period," Chancellor Clifford Erickson of the San Mateo Junior College District declared.

"I want to commend the faculty and the staff for their efforts in preparing this accreditation report and the students for their cooperation," Garlington said.

The accreditation team visited Skyline in December last year and reported its findings to the commission. Normal accreditation is for one year.

Educational Goals Studied

The Millbrae School District board of trustees heard a preliminary report Monday on a study being made on educational goals.

A new law gives schools additional authority to determine and develop methods of improving current educational practices, following a management technique that has proved successful in both government and commercial firms.

Presently, members of the staff and faculty who are working on the project include principals: David Bratt, Dean Edwards, William Hogan, Miss Maxine Norman, Miss Eleanor Oleson and Mrs. Miriam Swett. Teachers who are also working on the project include: Dick Anderson, Lewis Boxer, Mrs. Carmen Broz, Mrs. Grace Eggert, Mrs. Lennis Hansen, Howard Lucas, Mrs. Lois Maisels, John Petrovitz and Mrs. Beth Tegnell. More details will be given the board at its next regular meeting on March 1, at the district conference center, Chadbourne School annex. A special meeting will be held at 7:45 a.m. on February 19, at the district office, to approve warrants payments.

Home Burns in Millbrae

A $27,000 house fire damaged the Millbrae home of Frank Wulff, 26 Palm Avenue, last weekend.

Firemen said they were called Friday noon by a neighbor, who reported seeing flames and smoke pouring from the Wulff home.

Inspector Edward Williams said the entire rear portion of the house, and the back porch, was ablaze when firemen arrived.

He said the cause of the fire has not yet been determined, because Wulff was away from home at the time, and the fire seems to have started in an open space. The usual causes, such as wiring shorts or cigarets left burning in sofas, do not seem to fit, he said.

Inspector Williams said damage to the building itself would run about $12,000, and loss of contents would cost another $15,000.

A small dog belonging to the Wulff family, suffocated in the heavily smoked house.

Bridge Collapses, 1 Saved

A bridge collapsed under a Half Moon Bay Fire District pumper truck and an eight months pregnant woman escaped from her burning home Monday.

Half Moon Bay firemen, covering for Division of Forestry, were called to the Beffa Dairy Ranch, two miles east of Half Moon Bay off San Mateo Road, at 4:40 p.m., by Mrs. Richard Larson, the pregnant housewife who then escaped safely. Her husband is a Cabrillo Unified School District night custodian.

A small wooden bridge across a creek near the home collapsed under the 850-gallon pumper's rear wheels and left it hanging precariously by its driving gear, according to Capt. Al Sequera. The creekbed was 15 feet deep, Sequera said.

The house was involved but firemen got a line to it, Sequera said. Division of Forestry units arriving a few minutes later were detoured, except the pumper, which was hooked to the Half Moon Bay pumper and its water load transferred.

The house burned to the ground, with Forestry officials estimating the loss at $2000 to the three-room structure and $7000 to contents.

Half Moon Bay Fireman Dave Bettencourt suffered a head bump when the kitchen roof caved in, Sequera said.

Transit Station Foe Withdraws Objections

Opposition to construction of a rapid transit station adjacent to the Tanforan Park shopping complex in San Bruno has been withdrawn by the center's developer.

Hap Smith informed city councilmen attending a meeting last week that San Francisco Airport Access Project consultants will recommend a depressed station with multi-level parking structure be built in San Bruno.

Smith had feared patrons of the rapid transit system might take up parking spaces in the shopping center.

The exact type and design of the so-called "Tanforan station" has not been arrived at, according to Larry Dahms, project director.

Dahms said several station designs have been proposed for the area.

It was his opinion, however, that the project consultants will recommend the depressed station with multi-level parking for some 500-600 vehicles be constructed.

The package containing recommended designs and locations will be handed over to SFAAP Board of Control Directors at their meeting in San Francisco Wednesday.

No action will be taken on the matter until the February meeting, Dahms said.

Several shopping center officials have expressed fears that the transit system will "take away" from their facilities — the trains would whisk potential customers to other shopping areas outside town.

But Smith told San Bruno officials attending the meeting he held hopes the station would benefit his center.

"Wives picking up their husbands could do a little shopping," Smith said.

The Tanforan Park shopping center has been designed with the motorist-shopper in mind. Smith said he felt rapid transit would attract few motorists to leave their cars at home.

Most people will conitnue to drive their cars to the center, Smith said.

BETTER BUSINESS

By LORENE BEASLEY
Better Business Bureau

Soap sales do not ordinarily qualify as legitimate news stories, but Sears Roebuck & Company's detergent which is being endorsed by Former U.S. Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall changes the status of soap.

Udall, who writes a syndicated news column dealing with environmental problems, has agreed to do TV commercials for Sears new detergent which, according to Udall and tests conducted by disinterested scientists, contains none of the phosphates that are said to be a major source of water pollution.

According to Sears' executives, the new product which is supposed to be about as effective as phosphated detergents and selling at the same price, is selling well at all Sears' stores.

This is most welcome news after reading the results of a survey conducted by the Anti-Pollution Institute of America among 22,000 housewives who represented all income groups and ages.

Its story was that almost 100 percent of American housewives were more interested in a clean wash than a pollution-free river. They felt no personal responsibility for pollution. "I only wash once a week so it is not my fault that the flakes are dirty." The survey findings were confirmed by a number of major supermarkets who said they had pushed the low-phosphate and phosphate-free detergents but 95 per cent of their customers bought their old brands.

The arguments concerning the harmful enzyme product and the phosphate content in detergents have received much confusing publicity. The enzyme products in detergents are said to cause allergies, skin irritations and lung ailments. The phosphate content has been blamed for much of the excessive growth in the nation's lakes and streams. There has been much disagreement between the detergent industry and the FTC and Food and Drug Administration as to which of the two outside groups should conduct an investigation and what the investigation should consist of.

The government and soap detergent companies have reached an agreement to initiate industry financed studies of the safety of the enzymes used in laundry detergents. However, shortly before a company official of Procter & Gamble wrote to the President's special assistant for consumer affairs, "We believe that your move to coordinate the development of a testing program for all involved agencies is an excellent one.

"We are pleased that developments of such a test were referred to the American Academy of Allergy since, if such a testing protocol is designed, we think it should reflect the thinking of the best experts in the allergy field."

Mildred Gallick, director of consumer information of the Soap and Detergent Association, speaking on the main issue as to whether the amount of phosphates in detergents is directly related to increasing "eutrophication" of water bodies emphasized that "There is still no conclusive research which specifies 'phosphates' as the sole cause of speeding up the natural process which could well be triggered by many other chemicals which are not present in detergents but are found in other waste material."

Introduction of the graduates was made by Clayton Kollmann, principal. After the introduction, Albert Teglia, president of the board of trustees, presented the diplomas. Mrs. Richard Powell, clerk of the board, presented California Scholarship Federation life membership pins.

Next semester plans vary for each student. Kathy Dunbar plans to take the jump right into college, starting the new semester at San Francisco State. Attending Skyline after graduation is Liz Williamson.

Lois Buada, Nancy Plyer and Jim Musslewhite are planning to work before attending college next semester.

Marilee Jeppson will keep active after graduating by directing a musical comedy, while working part-time and attending a few classes at Skyline College in the spring.

Navy Tells of Medical Scholarship

Applications are now being accepted by the Navy for its medical osteopathic scholarship program, which offers an opportunity for male and female medical students to have their medical school paid for by the Navy.

The deadline for applying is March 15.

Basic qualifications for the program include being accepted for the next class or currently enrolled as a first or second year student in a school of medicine of osteopathy in the U.S. or Canada. Additionally, applicants must be U.S. citizens and physically qualified to serve as a Navy officer.

Benefits available under this program include full pay and allowances of a Navy officer (from $6,600 to $10,800 per year), full tuition and authorized school fees, $200 per year for books and other items, and all other rights and benefits of officers on active duty.

Active service required in return for this program begins immediately after internship and is creditable toward fulfilling the Selective Service obligation.

Marines Give Men a Choice

The United States Marine Corps has announced a new program that allows a young man to select the occupational area in which he wishes to serve while on active duty.

This program, called the "Ground Guarantee Program," is designed to enable a young man the opportunity to fulfill his military obligation in a field of his own choosing and at the same time receive valuable experience that will be an asset to him in the future.

Young men can serve as an Administrative Specialist, Technical Specialist, work with electronics or communications, receive Aviation School training or, be guaranteed to serve in a combat or combat arms occupational specialty — the backbone of the Marine Corps.

To qualify for this program a young man must be physically qualified and pass a series of mental tests. All guarantees will be in writing and given prior to enlistment. For more information contact Sergants Ed Huston, Jim Craig or Hank Narramore at 442 San Mateo Avenue, San Bruno.

Bank of D.C. Earnings Told

The First National of Daly City reported net income of $118,015, equivalent to 80 cents share, compared to 46 cents a share earned in 1969 — a gain of 74 per cent.

Resources at the year-end were 23.5 million, up over 21 per cent for the year.

The Bank now operates offices in Skyline Plaza, Pacifica, South San Frandisco and will open a San Bruno office mid year according to Frederick W. G. Mammer, executive vice president.
